WILL GIVE IT A TRIAL.

Lake Erie & Western Men Still at War.

They Do Not Like the New Schedule, but Will Give It a Chance to Prove Its Value.

Indianapolis, Sept. 2.—A committee representing the recent strikers on the Lake Erie & Western system waited upon Manager Bradbury to-day, complaining that the new schedule of wages was unsatisfactory.

A friendly conference followed, and the committee finally returned without any changes being conceded by the management. It was agreed to give the schedule 60 days' trial, and if by that time it failed to adjust itself satisfactorily further concessions would be made on both sides.

THE CORONER'S INQUEST.

New York, Sept. 2.—Coroner Hanly and his deputies began the inquest on the victims of the Park place disaster yesterday. The official title of the inquest as it appears on the docket is that of "an inquest into the death of Charles Britner and others." Several policemen and firemen testified but nothing new was elicited.

THE ITATA CASE.

New York, Sept 2.—C. R. Flint, agent of the Chilian steamship company has engaged Lawyer Goodwin to go to Los Angeles and defend the interests of the owners of the Itata in the suit brought by the U. S. against that vessel. Mr. Flint is also Chilian consul here.

PENNSYLVANIA DEMOCRATS.

Harrisburg, Pa., Sept. 2.—Delegates are arriving slowly for the democratic state convention to be held on Thursday. It seems to be the general belief here that Wright for auditor general and A. L. Tilden for state treasurer will be the ticket.

NEW NATIONAL BANK.

Washington, Sept. 2.—The First National bank of Velasco, Tex., has asked permission to organize.

A BIG STRIKE ORDERED.

Ten Thousand People Will be Affected.

The Window Glass Manufacturers and Their Employes Cannot Agree on Wages.

Pittsburg, Sept. 2.—A strike of window glass workers, which will throw fully 10,000 people out of employment, was officially declared to-day.

It will continue at least seven weeks, and, if neither side makes concessions, will continue longer.

A meeting of the sub-committees appointed to settle the wage differences was held this afternoon. The manufacturers withdrew their demand for a reduction, while the workers declined to recede from their demand for an advance.

At the meeting last week the manufacturers, in a spirit of harmony, withdrew their demand for a 10 per cent. reduction and agreed to pay last year's wages, the workers having agreed to recommend some changes in some of the rules.

At to-day's meeting the workers' committee refused to withdraw their demand for an increase in gatherers' wages and recalled their consent to the change of some of the rules. No settlement can now be had for seven weeks, as that time must elapse before the association can consider the matter.

BLOODY REVENGE.

Brutal Slaughter on the Chilian Streets.

Balmaceda Was Deceived by His Followers.

Made to Believe That His Soldiers Were Loyal.

Martinez Demands the Release of the Refugees.

Admiral Brown Called on to Surrender the Men Who Sought Shelter on the United States Boats.

Valparaiso, Chili, via Galveston, Sept. 2.—Order is gradually being restored in Chili. Gen. Basquedano has been recognized as president ad interim of the republic by the members of the Junta, and little trouble is felt, but this action will be ratified by members now en route from Iquique. Government troops at Concepcion, Talquehano and other points have through their commanding officers notified the congressionalist authorities that they have finished fighting and are ready to obey orders from the Junta and only Coquimbo promises to make trouble. All that remains to be done now is to put down the sporadic cases of disorder, bring to trial such of the Balmacedist officials as have been guilty of outrageous acts of tyranny and prepare for the elections, which will again give the republic an unquestioned constitutional government.

Ex-Minister Godoy, Balmaceda's closest adviser, and Balmaceda's brother, say that throughout the entire period since the outbreak of the revolution Balmaceda has depended upon the representations of the army officials that the force was loyal and devoted to the cause. Believing this Balmaceda concluded to continue resistance.

Had he thought otherwise he would have resigned rather than have been the cause of unnecessary bloodshed. Not only was he deceived in regard to the army, but Captains Moraga and Garin of the navy by their reports gave him great encouragement. The army now proves faithless and disloyal, as was shown in the recent battles. The officers were mainly young and inexperienced.

Senor Godoy thinks that Balmaceda has escaped to Buenos Ayres over the Cordilleras by way of Los Andes. He left Santiago, according to news received by Senor Godoy, on Saturday morning with six carriages containing his family and valuables.

Several prominent government officials will be shot to-morrow after a trial by martial law.

Referring to the silver shipment, Senor Godoy says Balmaceda bought the Italian steamer Aquilla at Montevideo. The owners required cash. The United States navy department refused to allow the Baltimore to carry the bullion. British Minister Kennedy obtained permission for the Espiegle to convey the same for delivery to an English bark at Montevideo. The steamer was bought for £14,000, of which £6,000 was to be used to furnish the fixtures and guns. The Aquila was to be fitted out for a cruiser. The bullion had gone to England.

Executed for Revenge.

The first and so far the only execution, which has the appearance of having been prompted by revenge occurred here today. The Procurator Fiscal Fas, who prosecuted the cases against the men who were alleged to be in a plot to blow up the torpedo boats Almirante Lynch and Almirante Condell, and the transport Imperiale, which resulted in the execution of Cummings and two others, was taken out and shot.

There have been other executions since the occupation of the city by the congressionalists, but they have been of men who were guilty of stirring up the people to acts of riot and incendiarism. The most prominent of the men who have thus far been killed on this account is Leon Lavin, editor of the El Commercio, who was caught in the act of distributing incendiary pamphlets. He was executed without the semblance of a trial.

The presence of political refugees on board the American and German warships has been the cause of several conferences and much ill-feeling.

Among the more prominent of those who have sought asylums are: Don Claudio Vicuna, who was elected to succeed Balmaceda as president; Senors Banados, ex-minister of war; Espinosa, ex-minister of the interior; Domingo Godoy, ex-minister of state and foreign affairs; Perez Montt, ex-minister of justice, and Oscar Veil, ex-intendente of Valparaiso.

Much indignation is felt both in official and unofficial circles that these men should be kept from the authorities. A formal demand for their surrender was made yesterday on Admiral Brown and the German admiral by Intendente Joaquin Walker-Martinez.

After a consultation the two naval officers informed Senor Walker-Martinez that they would decline to surrender the men unless proper guarantee were given that their lives would be safe until they had had a fair trial.

They were then requested by the intendente to furnish a list of all the men who had sought refuge on the warships so that the proper officials could decide which should receive the guarantee. This list was furnished.

At a conference held last night between the two admirals and the refugees, the former promised that all of them who were not guaranteed proper treatment would be put aboard a steamer and sent direct to Peru.

Arrangements have been made for a conference between the admirals and congressionalist leaders to finally dispose of the refugees, and i tis generally thought that the plan to send them to Peru will be agreed upon. The French admiral refused to harbor any of the refugees.

Why Not Recognized.

Acting Secretary of State Wharton's action in still refusing to recognize the Junta, now that it is practically the only government in Chili, is the subject of much adverse criticism here, and it is openly hinted that there must be more reason for it than appears on the surface. The elections cannot be held for at least a month. In the meantime General Baquedano will probably act as president under the advice and practical direction of the Junta.

The officials of the Central and South American Telegraph company here, as well as in Santiago and Lima, are working in thorough harmony with the authorities in the transmission of official and business messages as well as in obtaining news of relatives of those killed and wounded in the recent battle.

Mr. C. H. Baker is the superintendent of the company at Lima and Mr. Charles Turner is the manager here. They are very highly commended on all sides for the accuracy and rapidity with which they dispose of messages entrusted to them for delivery. The Central and South American wire was the only communication with the outer world during the recent troubles.

REPORTED KILLED.

The Dictator Alleged to Have Been Shot in the Mountains.

New York, Sept. 2.—A morning paper prints this: A report reached this city yesterday from Santiago that Balmaceda, ex-dictator of Chili, has been killed in the mountains while trying to effect his escape

CONTRADICTORY REPORTS.

Paris, Sept. 2.—A retired English officer in this city announces that he has a telegram from Balmaceda saying that he will come to Europe at the first chance.

EVIDENTLY MISINFORMED.

An Indiana Man Who Stands by Balmaceda.

Terre Haute, Ind., Sept. 2.—Balmaceda, the defeated and flying president of Chili, has a defender in the person of T. H. Nelson, of this city, formerly minister of the United States to Chili.

In an interview yesterday Mr. Nelson said:

"I see that Balmaceda's downfall is confirmed by dispatches to this government. I am sorry for this. The congressionalist party were in power when I was there, and of course I am interested in the success of my friends, for such they were, but my convictions are with Balmaceda. He is the representative of the masses against the classes. The people are for him. The rich and the privileged few are the congressionalists."

Mr. Nelson denied that Balmaceda had enriched himself by making away with public funds.

ALL HANDS ON DECK.

Minister Egan Wires News Five Days Old.

Washington, Sept. 2.—The state department has at last heard from Minister Egan. He sent some late news to the department yesterday and the dispatch was received this morning. The dispatch is as follows: "Santiago, Chili, Sept. 1. To Blaine, Washington: A decisive battle at Valparaiso on 28th August. Revolution entirely successful. President Balmaceda resigned on 29th. Revolutionists fully installed. Everything tranquil. (Signed) Egan."

CANADIAN CORRUPTION.

The Government is Shaky on All Sides.

Result of the Investigation Now Taking Place at the City of Ottawa.

Ottawa, Ont., Sept. 2.—The exposure of corruption in the state department presided over by J. A. Chapleau are complete.

Many witnesses were examined at yesterday's meeting of the parliamentary committee, and one of them, J. T. Johnson, of the Toronto type foundry, said he had gone to Mr. Chapleau's residence with Seneca, the absconding superintendent, and talked about the investigation.

Mr. Chapleau did not seem to know that Seneca had received money, but witness informed him of it.

Mr. Chapleau and Mr. Lister had a war of words during the proceedings. The latter said he had set out to prove that the department over which Mr. Chapleau presided was saturated with corruption and had proved his case. Before he was through he would bring that corruption pretty close to the secretary of state.

WANT AN INVESTIGATION.

Circleville People Want King's Release Looked Into.

Columbus, O., Sept. 2.—A petition, signed by 300 citizens of Circleville, has been received by Governor Campbell, asking that an investigation of the Central insane asylum be made in order to locate the responsibility for the release of Charles King, the patient who was permitted to leave the asylum and go home against the protest of his relatives, and who, upon his arrival at Circleville, shot and killed his mother.

The petition will be referred to the trustees, with instructions to investigate the matter at their first meeting.

OF INTEREST TO VOTERS.

The Ballots Must be Counted as Cast.

No Illegal Vote Can Get Into the Box Under the New Australian System.

Boston, Sept. 2.—A decision in an important point in law has been sent down by Judge Lathrop of the supreme court, applicable to the Australian ballot act.

In the case mentioned an effort was made by some citizens of Revere to oust a member of the board of selectmen, their most important point being an allegation that several persons who had no right to vote, voted for the candidate. The defendant's counsel contended that under the Australian ballot act it could not be objected after an election that persons voted illegally, where it did not appear that the votes of such persons were challenged in the manner provided by the act.

The defendant's demurrer was sustained by Judge Lathrop, who held that where votes are not challenged their legality cannot afterwards be a subject of inquiry.

COL. WHITFIELD ILL.

Washington, Sept. 2.—First Assistant Postmaster General Whitfield is quite a sick man as the result of overwork. He is suffering from nervous prostration and unable to leave his room. It is his intention, as soon as he is able, to go to Michigan and enjoy a rest.

TO REJECT ALL BIDS.

Washington, Sept. 2.—Assistant Secretary Nettleton said to-day that it was probable that all bids for the erection of government buildings at the world's fair would be rejected as excessive and new proposals invited.

THE FOUR AND A HALFS.

Washington, Sept. 2.—There was presented to the treasury department yesterday for extension at 2 per cent. $186,900 4 1-2 per cent. bonds, making the total $23,408,550.

WHERE HAS EGAN GONE?

Has He Fled From Fear of the Insurgents?

Another Scandal on Republican Shoulders.

The Minister Has Sold His Official Position in Chili for a Mess of Pottage—Pat Egan's Downfall.

Washington, Sept. 2.—It is the general impression here that the professional alien whom Blaine and Harrison sent to represent this country in a diplomatic capacity at Chili will receive his walking papers as soon as the new Chilian government is organized.

There is no doubt at all that Egan and the state department have steadfastly and desperately supported Balmaceda through all his tyrannies and fortunes during the past year.

The air here is full of whispers of scandals that must be shouldered by the republican party when all the facts are brought to light. The envoys of the congressional party of Chili now in Washington openly charge a conspiracy between Mr. Pat Egan, our envoy to that country, and the dethroned tyrant, Balmaceda.

In the soil of the long and narrow South American republic are immense beds of nitrate, almost as valuable as gold mines. These nitrate beds are said to have been worked in a diplomatic sense by Balmaceda and to have exercised great influence in his favor, both at home and abroad.

It is openly charged here that Egan, the secretary of state, and other officials of the state department are up to their ears, so to speak, in these nitrate beds.

There is not the slightest kind of doubt that Egan will be bodily fired from Chili as soon as the congressional party gets control of the capital. A prominent republican, familiar with affairs in Chili saw the storm coming a few months ago, and begged and implored the president and the state department officials, for the sake of the party, to have Egan recalled.

He foretold the scandal that has now come, but he pleaded in vain. Proof of Egan's friendship and support of Balmaceda and his unwarranted labors for that tyrant will be laid before congress next winter and, of course, an investigation will ensue.

It will be shown that when Egan was named as minister to Chili it was a distasteful appointment to that country; even Balmaceda felt offended. He did not know Egan then and had no use for him; Balmaceda's cabinet expressed resentment in the clubs and salons of Valparaiso against the United States for selecting Chili to remove a member of the Clan-na-Gael, a man who had no identification with the United States nor qualifications as a diplomatist.

At first Egan was not on good terms with Balmaceda and his cabinet. He was publicly snubbed by all the representatives of foreign governments at the Chilian capital.

When Balmaceda began to plot for the dictatorship, however, a sudden friendship sprang up between him and Egan.

The American minister publicly criticised the congress and talked strongly in favor of Balmaceda.

When the revolution came, Egan promptly sustained the dictator, and Balmaceda boasted openly that he had secured the friendship of the United States.

Ever since then Egan has been the tool of Balmaceda, but it is openly charged that not only Egan, but Blaine and other conspicuous republican statesmen, were interested in Balmaceda's tyranny.

It is notorious, too, that two of Egan's sons and others of his relatives, or dummies acting for him, received big, profitable government contracts in Chili through Balmaceda, and in this way the agent of the United States was debauched and the government of the United States caused to lend its support and influence to a dictator.

All of these charges and insinuations will be amply proved when congress convenes here next winter. Egan's appointment is one of the few in the diplomatic service that were entirely personal with Blaine.

Scandals such as we may now expect from South America are what we may be sure of at all times if Blaine should ever be president. Then he would have a chance to appoint Pat Egan and men of his calibre and character wherever there were nitrate beds or other valuable plunder of that kind to be worked diplomatically. The chances are that we will have Mr. Egan and his interesting brood back here within a month, and unless the statute of limitations has run out in Ireland Egan canot return to his old home.

DEMOCRATIC HARMONY.

Buffalo, N. Y., Sept. 2.—The democratic county committee met yesterday afternoon and adopted the compromise rules agreed upon by the Cleveland and the Erie county democracy conference committees. A resolution was adopted congratulating the democracy of Erie county upon the restoration of harmony.

NEW YORK'S EQUALIZERS.

Albany, N. Y., Sept. 2.—The state board of equalization met yesterday noon in the capitol and issued the annual table of equalization for the state. The total assessed value of real estate is $3,397,294,679, and the total equalized value the same. The total of real and personal property is $3,779,993,746.

INDIANA STATISTICS.

Washington, Sept. 2.—The census office to-day issued a bulletin giving the population of Indiana by minor civil divisions. The total population of the state for 1890 is placed at 2,192,404, an increase of 214,104 over 1880. Of the 92 counties in Indiana 25 show decreases, only four having shown decreases of more than 10 per cent.

HE WILL PAY THE FREIGHT

Jones to Run on an Independent Ticket.

New York Politics to be Complicated This Fall by Two Democratic Tickets.

Saratoga, N. Y., Sept. 2.—A conference was held in Congress Hall yesterday which will certainly have an important bearing upon state politics.

Representative democrats from New York and Buffalo were present. The principal celebrity on hand was Lieutenant-Governor Jones, who, at the conclusion of the conference, expressed a willingness to accept an independent nomination for governor.

It is known that a part of the plan of campaign decided upon is a convention at Albany of the Central Labor Unions of the state to be held between the dates set for the holding of the republican and democratic state conventions. This convention will place Jones in nomination. It is understood that the Stecklers, of New York, are in the scheme. This much is known for a certainty, Lieutenant Governor Jones will run for governor this fall on an independent ticket.

HAS ANOTHER ALIAS.

Almy Identified as Mr. W. F. Lewis.

Franklin Falls, N. H., Sept. 2.—Fresh doubts as to the identity of Almy have been raised to-day by a visit to the prisoner of E. J. Higgins, an employe of the Winipiseogee Paper company, who was well acquainted with George Abbott, having lived at one time in the same town with him.

Mr. Higgins advanced to Almy's cot fully prepared to greet Abbott. But as soon as he had looked at the prisoner's face he uttered an ejaculation of surprise and exclaimed:

"Why, Lewis, I never expected to see you again."

Almy denied that his name was Lewis, though he colored and looked uncomfortable while Higgins was talking to him.

After he had left the prisoner's room Higgins related the story of his acquaintance with W. F. Lewis, as he called him, stating that six years ago this man worked about six months on his father's farm. He roomed by himself, and never would allow any one in his room, even to make the bed. He was well educated, reticent as to his past, fond of female society, and carried a revolver.

J. F. Bryant, a well known Enfield citizen, who had also known Lewis at the time he worked for the Higgins family, was confident that Almy and Lewis were the same.

TENNESSEE LEGISLATURE.

Nashville, Tenn., Sept. 2.—Both houses of the general assembly met at 1 o'clock yesterday and adjourned before noon to meet at 10 o'clock to-day pending the action of the committee considering the penitentiary bill. During the session nothing was done of general interest.

The penitentiary committee of the house and senate are beginning to discuss in earnest the penitentiary and lease system. All are anxious for some solution of the vexed convict question but no plan that meets with general approval has yet been suggested.

TO TRY GALT.

Washington, Sept. 2.—The navy department has detailed a court-martial to convene at Norfolk, Va., next Thursday to try Passed Assistant Engineer Robert W. Galt for neglect of duty. Commodore O. F. Stanton will be president of the court. The trial grows out of the recent theft of goods from the storehouse at the Norfolk navy yard. Engineer Galt had charge of the stores stolen, but it has been established that he was not implicated in the theft, his alleged offence consisting in neglect in not preventing the robbery.

MR. PORTER'S CENSUS.

The Mass of Misinformation Almost Complete.

He Will Present Part of It to Congress and Ask for More Money to Complete the Job.

Washington, Sept. 2.—Supt. Porter, of the census bureau, who is now giving his entire attention to revising final census reports, says that he expects to have the first five hundred pages of the compendium of the eleventh census ready for the public printer on September 15.

He has received the last card punched containing population statistics, the number of which is 62,622,250. For the past six months a large number of clerks, working night and day, have been engaged upon punching machines, which, corresponding with the enumerators' sheets, give all the information required by law.

Each card will average 17 holes, being the number of questions answered by each person. The number of holes punched far exceeds 1,200,000,000.

Mr. Porter says that since February 28 1891, the clerks have punched 700 cards per day, which is 200 more than the estimates furnished by him when this method of tabulation was adopted.

Both men and women were engaged upon the machines, but the latter, he says, showed greater adaptability to the work.

The backbone of the census work is broken and the few hundred clerks now employed will be sufficient to complete the work. He expects to have several completed volumes ready for congress in December.

MILBOURNE'S RIVAL.

Albertson Gets Up a Storm In Wyoming.

Cheyenne, Wyo., Sept. 2—Frank Albertson operated here yesterday with his secret process for rain making and the result was two showers, amounting to nearly half an inch of precipitation. The heavy rain was local, Cheyenne being the storm centre of a ninety mile circumference. Albertson keeps his secret well. He works in a barn and has a hole in the roof for his use, but its utility has not been ascertained. Opinions are divided as to whether he uses chemical gases or electricity. The two storms came from different directions.

WANT MORE MONEY.

No End to Expense on the World's Fair.

The Government to be Asked to Loan Seven Millions Dollars to the Fair.

Chicago, Sept. 2.—Congress is to be asked to loan the World's Columbian exposition $5,000,000 at least, and perhaps $7,000,000. That is the decision of the national commissioners, and the Chicago directors are giving them strong moral support.

For two days a special committee has been holding sessions, discussing the best policy to pursue in getting the loan.

This committee is composed of Gen. St Clair, of West Virginia, and Gov. Massey, of Delaware, both influential members of the national commission; Director-General Davis and Directors Sage, Baker and Jeffery. All are agreed that congress ought to make a loan, but how to get it is the question now under discussion.

Many of the members declare that congress should make an outright appropriation of at least $5,000,000. They argue that the United States has much more at stake than the city of Chicago and should be liberal and magnanimous.

Six million dollars have already been secured by popular subscription and the city of Chicago has issued bonds for $5,000,000 more.

POISONED ICE CREAM.

Visalia, Cal., Sept. 2—Eleven boarders in the house of Mrs. McDermott were taken suddenly ill on Sunday afternoon immediately after eating some ice cream.

A doctor was summoned and an investigation made when it was discovered that a large quantity of croton oil had been mixed with the cream before it was frozen.

A boarder who had been ordered to leave on account of his drunken habits is supposed to be the guilty party and the police are now in search of him. All the eleven boarders are now out of danger.

RUSSIAN NOTES.

St. Petersburg, Sept. 2.—The official announcement is made that the Imperial bank has been empowered to temporarily issue notes to the amount of 25,000,000 roubles.

OHIO EXPERIMENT STATION.

Wayne County Has Secured Its Location.

Wooster, O., Sept. 2.—Charles E. Thorne, S. H. Ellis and Charles H. Warder, of the board of control of the Ohio experiment station, met the commissioners of Wayne county here yesterday and formally accepted the proposition for the location of the farm in this county.

The proposition provided for the raising of $55,000 by taxation, to be expended in buying not less than four hundred acres of land for the station and for the improvement of said land, and if the voters shall vote in favor of the proposition the farm shall be permanently located in the county. A special election will be held October 6. It is believed that the proposition will have an almost unanimous vote.

ALARM IN GUATEMALA.

City of Mexico, Sept. 2.—Advices received from Guatemala say that the election excitement there is intense and it is feared no election can take place. In such case president Barrilas will hold over and he may try to declare himself dictator, which will not only cause complications in Guatemala, but in all Central America.

Mrs. Levi Thomas Sr., of Hartland, one of the oldest pioneers of that township, who had lived there over 60 years, died Sunday, aged 74 years. She was the mother of Mrs. H. J. Barber, of this city.

Miss Maud March, of Greenwich, has been appointed a deputy in Probate Judge Thomas' office. Miss Charlotte Wickham who has been deputy for eight years or more will go to New York city in about a month, where she will spend the winter in taking lessons in vocal music.

Henry Myers, one of the party who assaulted Chas. Wood, of Townsend, has been sentenced to pay a fine of $25 and costs, and to stand committed at the Cleveland workhouse until fine and costs are paid.

MILLS WILL COME.

The Texan Will Talk Almost a Month in Ohio.

Columbus, O., Sept. 2.—Hon. Roger Q. Mills of Texas has accepted the invitation of the democratic state committee to stump Ohio, and to-day notified Chairman Neal that his time from Sept. 9 to Oct. 3 was at the disposal of the committee. Chairman Neal has not yet decided where Mr. Mills will make his first speech.

SHERMAN WILL BE THERE.

He Will Fight for His Flag in Cleveland.

The Ohio Senator Does Not Propose to Let Foraker Have Everything in Sight.

Cleveland, Sept. 2.—"Sherman will be here on Saturday!"

This was a faint whisper here yesterday. To-day it is an audible sound in all the political circles of the city.

He was doubtless chilled when he heard that Foraker's champion on the reserve Hon. E. L. Lampson, had been nominated for senator in the big Twenty-fourth-Twenty-sixth district.

But, all the same, he will be here on Saturday and make the attempt in person to stem the tide of Forakerism, which now threatens to capture bag and baggage the eleven members of the Cuyahoga delegation in the Seventieth general assembly.

On that day the republican county committee meets to fix the time of the county convention and determine the method of choosing the delegates.

WENT DOWN TO DEATH

Eight Sailors Go to Davy Jones' Locker,

Where the Blue Seas Will Ever Roll Over Them.

The Steamer Dunmurry Capsized on the Ocean and Only Part of Her Crew Escape in the Life Boats.

Halifax, N. S., Sept. 2.—The steamer Dunmurry, of Belfast, which sailed from New York August 26 for Antwerp with a cargo of grain, sank about 800 miles east of New York on the morning of the 29th.

She had a crew of 28 men, commanded by Capt. McMoran. Eight of the crew are lost. The others were tossed about in a life boat for two days and finally picked up by the steamer Hans and Kurst, which carried the men to this port.

Capt. McMoran, who is one of the survivors, told a United Press reporter that after leaving New York on Wednesday last fine weather was experienced until Saturday morning when the vessel was struck by a hurricane and thrown on her beam ends.

Tremendous seas were shipped and the ship became totally unmanageable. The port side of the deck was in water and the list was constantly increasing.

The captain saw the steamer could only remain afloat a few minutes and all hands were called from below. Life belts were served to every man. The port ports were washed away.

One life boat and the life raft were barely in the water when the steamer capsized, keel up, and remained in that position for a few minutes.

All of the crew except a few who had gotten into the boat were thrown into the water. Most of them were picked up by their companions in the boat, but eight were drowned. The names of the lost are: John McKibben, Belfast; George Gray, Dumbaston; James Spencer, Lowestoft; J. Kerne, Swansea; Fred Skiffen, Hamburg; C. Baker, Liverpool; R. Rice, Plymouth, and Anton Heffer, Hamburg.

LIFE AND DEATH.

The Former Is Hard, But the Latter Made Easy.

Bradford, Pa., Sept. 2.—A suicide mania has taken possession of the aged members of a local agnostic circle here which was founded by the late Dr. Stuart, who himself led the way by taking his own life.

Since then three other members of the circle have tried to kill themselves and two have succeeded.

The last case occurred yesterday when Elias Heasley, aged 66, took rough on rats and died from its effects.

He pondered upon the life and death theory of Dr. Stuart until he decided to end his life in harmony with his friend's theory and practice.

AN ARCTIC FREEZE.

It is Pouncing Down on This Country.

Somebody Up at the Pole Has Untied a December Wave and It Has Got Beyond Control.

St. Paul, Minn., Sept. 2.—The St. Paul weather bureau has information that an area of high pressure of great magnitude has appeared over that portion of the British possessions north of Washington state. It seems to be an arctic "surge" and will bring severe and "killing frosts" over nearly all the northwest and several of the states contiguous thereto between now and Friday morning.

AN OIL CONTEST.

City of Findlay Sued By a Glass Company.

Columbus, Sept. 2.—A case has been filed with the clerk of the supreme court in which The Dalzell, Gilmore & Leighton Glass company of Findlay is plaintiff in error against Findlay City et al.

An oil syndicate induced the stove company to locate at Findlay by contracting to furnish them oil for five years gratis.

The syndicate later sold its interests to the city and the municipality, through its oil commissioners, assumed the obligations of fulfilling the contract, charging the nominal sum of $100 per year. This spring the city authorities ran up the price to $6,700, on the ground that the city had no right to carry out such a contract. The lower courts decided the case in favor of the city.

An Ohio Merchant Charged With Bigamy.

The Double Life of a Zanesville Citizen Brought Unwelcomely to His Attention.

Zanesville, O., Sept. 2.—Ellis L. Sullivan was brought here from Richmond, Ind., by Deputy Sheriff Bainter, charged with bigamy.

Ellis first made his appearance in this county three years ago and opened a country store at Gaysport. He made love and soon married Jennie E. Olden, a young lady of highly respected family.

They lived together happily until a few weeks ago, when a friend of the Olden family returned from a trip to West Virginia, bringing with him an abstract of the records of Harrison county, showing that Sullivan was married to Barbara Ashcroft in 1876, together with the further information that he had deserted his first wife and five children in 1886.

A warrant was immediately sworn out for Sullivan's arrest, but he got wind of the matter and fled. He was located in Richmond, Ind., where he was arrested. Sullivan has two children by his second wife.

A KING IN HIS LINE.

How Forger Stoddard Got Out of Prison.

The Most Gigantic Piece of Forgery on Record.

A Man Who, Had He Turned His Genius to Honorable Pursuits, Would Have Made His Mark.

New York, Sept. 2.—"Talk about your crooks! They never did anything to equal that. It was the slickest piece of business ever done in this country."

The bright eyed enthusiasm with which Edward L. Stoddard said this in the jail on Jersey City hill top, suggested the idea of personal pride in the successful result of the chief of his enterprises in crime; but he disclaimed all part in it. The work was done, he insisted, by "friends on the outside." He was merely its beneficiary.

"Whatever other fate is in store for me," he said, "I do not want to go back to Tennessee; and it is only in the hope that the plain unvarnished tale will keep me from it that I talk to you. I was arrested in Tipton county, Tenn., in December, 1889, for passing forged checks. It was not till the June following that I was brought to trial.

"In that state the jurors not only determine the question of guilt, they fix the term of punishment as well. The jury that tried me recommended that I be imprisoned for 11 years. I had been defended by N. W. Baptist, the most conspicuous lawyer in the state and a man of political prominence. He was chairman of the prison managing committee. He threatened to appeal from the outrageous punishment indicated by the jury, and the court consented, on the condition that I forego the appeal, to reduce my term to six years.

"Early in July I was taken to the Nashville penitentiary to serve the shortened term. I was there till the institution was burned down, in the following October, a little less than a year ago. Then I was sent to service in the Tracy City coal mines, in the Cumberland mountains. When I had put in six days there I convinced the doctors that I was too tall for a mine and unadapted to the work in it as well, for the reason that I had never done manual labor, and I was transferred to the coke ovens.

"I was wheeling coke there when John P. Buchanan was elected governor of the state. In November last he succeeded to the office. The change of administration meant a change of prison keepers, and I set a little scheme on foot to make myself kind of solid, you know, with the new comers.

"It was worked through a meeting of the mine convicts, 500 in all. I had them adopt a series of resolutions I had prepared, commending the retiring prison officials for the humanity with which we had been treated and appealing to their successors for an exercise of the same lenity. That happy thought of mine bettered my situation. I was put in charge of the 'nigger wing' of the Tracy City prison.

"On April 2 I was surprised with a notice that I had been favored with a pardon. My friends on the outside had brought it about. Their principal argument was a petition bearing 150 signatures asking for my release. You never saw such a variety of penmanship. No signature bore the slightest resemblance to any other one. They represented the chief citizens in Tipton county—lawyers, statesmen, ministers, the judges who tried me and the jurors who convicted me.

"Helping along this imposing appeal was a personal letter from Mr. Baptist to the governor, written in his official capacity, recommending me to clemency. My friends concluded that a letter from him would, because of his official position, be necessary to prompt the governor to act. And then the governor received another letter from John A. Tipton in the same vein. Mr. Tipton was the governor's chosen chum in Tipton county.

"My friends knew that the governor would not act without consulting Mr. Tipton, and so they took the precaution of having a letter from Mr. Tipton, too, to back up the petition. The testimonials worked like a charm. The governor sat right down and wrote my pardon.

"A pretty good thing, there, by the way," Stoddard put in. "The pardon was carried to the prison by H. H. Norman, the governor's private secretary, and he told me that the governor would be pleased to have me call at the executive office when I got my new suit on."

"Did you go?" I asked.

Stoddard smiled a big smile.

"Did I go?" he repeated. "Well, no; I had my reasons for staying away, and within an hour after my release I was on my way out of the state."

The governor found out the reasons a few days afterward. Having done something to please Tipton he wrote to him to tell him of the pardon. Tipton scribbled a letter in response, pasted a rapid delivery stamp on it and rushed to the postoffice with it. Its purport was that so far from having asked for the release of Davis (that was Stoddard's police court name at that time) he knew of the man only as one who had been punished all too lightly for his crime.

The governor scratched his head in puzzled surprise, and wondered whether his old friend Baptist would try to escape responsibility for his letter in the same way. Presently came a letter from Baptist denying that he, either, had asked for his client's release. He had defended him, and had especially good opportunities to know that the fellow had been sentenced to no more than he deserved.

The governor was stunned with astonishment. Would the 150 men whose names were signed to the petition also deny their signatures? Letters were rushed out to them, and the 150 replies were all of the same tenor. Not a writer in the whole lot had ever seen the petition or heard of it.

Telegrams calling for the re-arrest of the escaped man were sent in all directions, but it was worse than hunting a needle in a haystack. The governor published a proclamation offering $200 reward for his recapture.

"They say it was your hand that penned all the forgeries," I ventured to Stoddard.

"It was my friends on the outside," Stoddard returned, with startled surprise and apprehension. "Do the police say that they have proof that it was my work?"

Stoddard admitted that he had served a term in the state prison at Joliet, Ill., and another in the Connecticut state prison at Bridgeport, and that his check operations embraced nearly every section of the east. His father was a locksmith in North Brookfield, Mass., till he removed to Chicopee. In the latter place Stoddard made the acquaintance of an amiable young woman and led her to the altar.

Five or six years ago, after he had begun his downward career, she sought separation from him with the aid of the divorce courts. He led an honest life at the start and was at one time the assistant paymaster of the Ames Manufacturing company, and at another was in the service of the Delaware & Hudson Canal company. He fell in with fast and wayward fellows of large means. His limited income made it impossible for him to keep pace with them and he resorted to check forgeries for ready cash.

When he found himself in his first serious trouble in Connecticut his knowledge of the habits of one "Ed" Briggs, scion of a rich Boston widow, served his purpose. He wrote in "Ed" Briggs' name to Mrs. Briggs, telling of his arrest for forgery and praying her to have a mother's mercy for her son. He must have $300 in cash to fee lawyers and pay other expenses. Mrs. Briggs forwarded the cash, although she had supposed that her son was in England. It was some months before the deceived mother learned that her son had never been in Connecticut.

Early this month Stoddard made his appearance in Jersey City to file a despatch to the National bank at Pittsfield, Mass. It called for the remission by telegraph of $60 and was signed "John S. Wolfe." Mr. Wolfe is a rich business man at Pittsfield. He is also a depositor in the bank there, and the telegraphic order would have been honored but for the fact that Mr. Wolfe had been in the bank an hour before its arrival.

The telegram was was placed in the hands of the Pittsfield police. They sent word at once to Jersey City and when Stoddard called at the telegraph office for the answer Police Superintendent Smith laid his heavy hand on his shoulder. The police held on to him till they had found out something about him, and they have not ceased finding out things about him yet.

Tried it from Jersey City's Jail, Too.

Two or three days after his first commitment to the city prison, Miss Duncan, living in Chicopee, Mass., received a piteous appeal for help from her brother Charles. His letter was dated from the city prison, Jersey City, and was to be answered to the care of Chief of Police Murphy. In it the writer said that he had been arrested for an escapade and that things would go hard with him unless he had $300 with which to retain lawyers and fee his persecutors.

Miss Duncan's brother Charles was at table with her in Chicopee when the appealing epistle reached her. She might have been tempted to express $300 to him in care of Chief of Police Murphy but for the fact that she had the evidence of her eyes to convince her that Charles was not in Jersey City. That letter found its way into the hands of the police, and Stoddard admits now that he wrote it. He had reason to believe that Charles was traveling in Europe.

"I want to reform now," Stoddard said to me, "and I am going to appeal to some humane person, man or woman, to help me do it. I'm not a crook. The most singular feature of my career is that I never started out to lead a wicked life. I have been in positions where I could have taken thousands and thousands of dollars, but but they were safe in my hands.

"It was only when I needed money to meet my personal extravagances—rum mostly—that I have been pursuaded from the straight and narrow path. I will sell myself for seven years, for my food, clothes and lodging, to any one who will extend me a helping hand now."

FIVE DAYS OF KER-CHEW.

A Little Girl Almost Sneezed to Death.

A Strange Case Which Has Baffled the Best Medical Science in Philadelphia.

Lancaster, Pa., Sept. 2.—Ella O'Connor a slight girl of 11 years, has sneezed herself nearly to death. For five days she sneezed almost continuously. From the time the malady began until it left her completly prostrated the child got sleep only when it was induced by artificial means. She took but little nourishment, and so exhausted was Ella that even yet her recovery is not assured.

The attending physician was utterly baffled and his medicines availed but little. The strange case has excited the interest of other doctors, who have come to inquire about it.

She began sneezing last Sunday night at 8 o'clock. She was not suffering from any cold. The sneezing continued without a minute's cessation the whole night with the exception of a short two hours, when, exhausted, the girl fell into a heavy sleep.

Early on Monday morning the child again began sneezing, and kept it up all day with a two hours interval of sleep. From noon of that day until 11 o'clock that night Ella sneezed without a moment's pause.

A hypodermic injection of morphia was then administered, which put her to sleep until Tuesday morning, at 6 o'clock. For two hours she was extremely ill. Then the sneezing began once more, and it continued the greater part of the day.

She would occasionally have a rest for a few moments. She complained of a pain in her back and head. At times the sneezing was more severe than at others. During the severe spells she could scarcely catch her breath. Many times the anxious mother thought her daughter was strangling to death.

The sneezing reached its climax on Tuesday evening. The doctor who attended the child was helpless before such an enemy. It was plain to all that if relief did not soon come death would.

A heavy injection of morphine was the last resort. This put her to sleep, and she slept soundly until Wednesday morning. When she got awake she again began sneezing, but it was a mild attack, and from that time she gradually got better. The spells grew more infrequent and of shorter duration. On Friday they ceased altogether.

This is the third attack the girl has had, and, for the time it lasted, was the severest. Two years ago she was afflicted in this way, but then the sneezing continued for ten days. When it ceased the girl was reduced to a mere skeleton.

A year ago she was attacked a second time. Then her malady lasted three days. Dr. J. W. Hess was her physician. He says that there is nothing known in medical practice to reach such cases.

The girl has been subject to hemorrhages of the nose, but she has had none for four weeks. The doctor hoped in the early part of her illness for such a hemorrhage, believing that with it the sneezing would cease.

AWAY OUT IN KANSAS

Is Heard the Strong Voice of Progressive Democracy.

The People's Party Is Made of Republican and Republican Abuse Makes It Impossible for the Stragglers to Return.

Washington, Sept. 2.—"The situation in Kansas looks mixed to outsiders, but it is a simple one after all," writes an active Kansas democrat to a friend in this city. "Last fall the democrats made no nominations in five congressional districts and voted for the people's party candidates as the surest way to defeat the republicans.

"The people's party leaders, however, proved ungrateful, arrogant and dictatorial and the democratic press of the state has come out strongly against fusion, while the republicans are inviting democrats to join their ranks to put down the people's party.

"This, of course, we will not do, but will keep up our own organization, and where it can be safely done may help such of the people's party candidates as may be satisfactory to us.

"As at present constituted, almost the entire strength of the people's party comes from the republicans, and the latter have abused and ridiculed the former in speech and in print with such bitterness that they are not going to return to old party ties—certainly not this year, and not in 1892, unless woefully bad nominations are made by the democrats.

"As to Harrison's strength in Kansas, he has none. If nominated, and a third party is in the field, a Harrison electoral ticket would surely be defeated. With wise and prudent management it is possible to elect a democratic ticket from Kansas, large as the republican majority has been, unless conditions change mightily."

PRICE OF LUMBER.

Minneapolis, Minn., Sept. 2.—The lumber manufacturers of the northwest met here to-day to take united action against advancing the price of lumber. Over sixty were present from Minnesota, Iowa and Wisconsin. It was decided to form a permanent organization and a committee was appointed to draw up a constitution. A committee was also appointed to compile the written reports from lumber makers all over the northwest as to the state of the market. It is proposed to advance prices about a dollar a thousand.

IN LEAGUE WITH SHARKS.

Harrison Reported to Have Doubled Up

With the Powerful Louisiana Lottery Company

In Order to Secure Southern Delegates in the Nomination Convention in 1892.

Washington, Sept. 2.—A Louisiana politician now in Washington insinuates that the administration is dickering with the Louisiana Lottery company, the consideration on one side being Harrison delegates to the republican national convention, and on the other side no prosecuting for violation of law by the lottery company. The Louisianian who made this interesting statement based his views on other matters as follows:

"President Harrison was visited by a number of southern republicans during his stay at Cape May, and some of them while tarrying in Washington on return trips have been talking.

"The president has been distinctly reminded in the course of conversation of the possible complexion of the several Southern delegations at the republican National convention; that he is the only Chief Magistrate since the war who has not had a Southern man in his Cabinet, and that moreover of all the heads of bureaus in the departments only two are Southern men—one Lynch, colored, of Mississippi, and Mason, of West Virginia.

"That President Harrison is giving attentive ear to these observations is evident in the tone of the gentlemen who have been to see him and who claim to lend respectability to the party in the South.

"The contest will be more interesting from the fact that two of the most famous republican leaders in that section are arrayed against each other. Powell Clayton of Arkansas is for the President and William Kellogg of Louisiana is against him. Both are shrewd men and each is master of the situation at home.

"Clayton has long controlled the republican party of Arkansas, and is strong now by reason of having all the federal places in the state filled with his friends, the president yielding everything to him, and now Clayton is to make return by taking a Harrison delegation to the next convention from Arkansas, and also exerting his influence on adjoining states.

"Kellogg, from some cause not easily understood when it is understood that Clayton passed muster, was rejected when the president made up his list of southern lieutenants. Not only was he not sent for when the distribution of patronage was reached, but his particular friends were also put under the ban.

"Kellogg's old rival, Warmoth, was made the local boss, and matters were fashioned to suit him. Naturally enough Kellogg resented this treatment, and having kept his hold on the colored voters of the state despite the presidential frown and slight, is organizing to assist to defeat the president's aspirations for a second term.

"The extent to which Clayton and Kellogg can influence the situation outside of their respective states remains to be seen. The field is said to be an open one. The president has made fewer influential friends in the south by his distribution of patonage than the opportunity warranted, and as a result, his case in the main is obscure and in incapable hands down there.

"It seems likely, therefore, that while Clayton will doubtless do his best for his benefactor, Kellogg, with the discontented rank and file at his back, will carry the majority of the delegates over to the other side. Kellogg's personal preference is Sherman, but realizing that Sherman is not in the race he is for Blaine."

APPEALING FOR FUNDS.

Foster is Working the Republican Clerks.

Civil Service Reform Rules Not to Stand in the Way of Political Contributions.

Washington, Sept. 2.—The department clerks who were afraid to violate the civil-service law by being too active in politics in a way to bring about prosecutions before the grand jury of the District of Columbia have, during the past week, received assurances—probably from an "official quarter," as Jay Hubbell phrased it in his celebrated assessment circular—that "voluntary" contributions of time and money will be welcomed and no questions asked.

Mention is made at this time also of the delays in flagrant cases of violation of the law which have been so long pending in the supreme court of the District and the action of Childs and Clabaugh in the last campaign is pointed to as security that violation of the law will be winked at.

The excursion of the Ohio Republican association down the Potomac Monday was made the occasion for an appeal for funds for McKinley; and Secretary Foster is said to have given the clerks to understand that while they must not entangle themselves in the meshes of the civil service law, yet the openings were wide and it was the duty of republicans in or out of office to give of their means to the cause, and to devote their annual holidays to the party. The secretary, it is said, spoke of the great importance of electing McKinley by a decisive majority, and regarded the fight in Ohio as the opening of the campaign of 1892.

In a carefully thought out speech he told the listening office holders that the civil service law had a tendency to make party cowards and produce mugwumps, and make men grow careless of party duties. "I don't care," said he, "if a man is under the civil service law; he is still a citizen, and, if a republican, owes allegiance to that party and should give his money and his time, when not engaged in public duties, to uphold it."

NEW HAMPSHIRE LEGISLATURE.

Concord, N. H., Sept. 2.—The governor's council to-day again rejected the nomination of Col. Thomas Cogswell as railroad commissioner. The two democratic members of the council then presented to the governor the name of a gentleman whom they had agreed upon and requested that he be nominated. Both they and the governor decline to say who the proposed nominee is. The governor has taken the matter under consideration.

A SHINING EXAMPLE

Of How to Enforce the Sunday Law in a City.

Philadelphia, Sept. 2.—If there has been any lingering doubt that the powers that be are determined to keep this town in a thorough state of repose on Sunday it was dispelled Sunday, when the police descended upon the bootblacks and wiped them off the streets.

Director Roney decided upon this step after mature deliberation and the necessary order was issued to all the police lieutenants on Saturday and reiterated Sunday morning.

The movement was directed principally against the proprietors of the numerous chairs and stools that have embellished street corners and squares in defiance of the opinions of the Philadelphia Sabbath association and the rest of the Christian community.

THEY NEVER CAME BACK.

Marblehead, Mass., Sept. 2.—Wm. O. Tucker and Wm. Garvin, who left here on Aug. 18 in a dory for a trip along the coast, have not been heard from since the 20th inst., when they put in at Annisquan, and it is feared they have been drowned.

A Democratic City Treasurer Is Causing Consternation by His Exposures.

Philadelphia, Sept. 2.—City Treasurer W. E. Wright has forwarded a letter to Auditor General McCamant asking that he join with him in the dismissal of mercantile appraisers Edward N. Patton, Albert Crawford, Samuel F. Houseman, Harry Hunter and James F. Bell, constituting the present board of mercantile appraisers for the city and county of Philadelphia, and makes the following charges against them: 1. That the appraisers have regularly and deliberately, for the purpose of defrauding the state, assessed fictitious persons and those from whom no payment of mercantile taxes was or could be exacted.

2. That they have regularly exempted from the payment of the tax those who were subject to and perfectly able to pay it.

3. That they have grossly underrated many hundred of prominent merchants and dealers for purposes best known to themselves.

4. That they sent out notices of assessment placing certain taxpayers in a high class while they have returned them to this department assessed in a lower class, thus enabling third parties to collect from the taxpayers the larger sum, while the smaller amount only was paid into the treasury and the state was defrauded of the difference.

KENTUCKY'S GOVERNOR.

Buckner Steps Out and Brown Steps In.

Frankfort, Ky., Sept. 2.—Yesterday at high noon the administration of Gov. Buckner passed into history, and his successor, John Young Brown, was inaugurated for a term of four years.

The exercises attending the inauguration were on a far more magnificent scale and were viewed by more people of all walks of life than any of his predecessors.

After being escorted by the military through all the principal streets of the city amid wild enthusiasm, they repaired to the inaugural stand in the state house yard, where the valedictory of the outgoing governor and the address of the new one were delivered.

Both were short but highly appropriate. The oath of office was then administered by Chief Justice Holt, of the court of appeals.

The city is in gay attire and there is a general suspension of business in order to make the ceremonies a complete success. The cabinet of the new governor will consist of John W. Headley, of Louisville, secretary of state; S. F. Norman, of Graves, assistant secretary, and A. J. Gross, of Breckenridge, adjutant-general. The other appointments at his disposal, such as commissioners to revise code and statute laws and other places, will not yet be filled.

VANDERBILT'S CONQUEROR.

Vanderbilt, owner of the yacht Conqueror, held by the custom house authorities for duties through his attorneys to-day filed a libel in the United States district court against his own vessel. He states that the Conqueror was built at Glasgow; that he bought her there; that he is a member of the Royal Mersey Yacht club, and that his yacht is enrolled on that club's list. He asks that he may be placed in possession of the yacht.

WILL WEAR MRS. ASTOR'S CLOTHES.

New York, Sept. 2.—The dresses imported for Mrs. Astor from Paris, which were held at the custom house, and which Mrs. Astor declined to interest herself in on the ground that the consignor had attempted to defraud her as well as the government, were sold by the marshal to-day. No. 1, a green silk and velvet robe, brought $960; No. 2, a white brocche silk robe was bought for one of Koster & Bial's singers, Jennie Joyce, for $770.

HAD CHINESE ON BOARD.

Washington, Sept. 2.—The treasury department is advised that Capt. Tozier, of the revenue cutter Wolcott, has seized the steamer George E. Starr, bound from Victoria to Port Angeles, for having on board two Chinese subjects. Assistant Secretary Crounse has directed Capt. Tozier to deliver the Chinamen and the vessel to the collector at Port Townsend, who is instructed to report the facts to the United States district attorney.

CHEATING IN HORSE BLANKETS

Nearly every pattern of 5/A Horse Blanket is imitated in color and style. In most cases the imitation looks just as good as the genuine, but it hasn't the warp threads, and so lacks strength, and while it sells for only a little less than the genuine it isn't worth one-half as much. The fact that 5/A Horse Blankets are copied is strong evidence that they are THE STANDARD, and every buyer should see that the 5/A trade mark is sewed on the inside of the Blanket.

SCROFULA

Is that impurity of the blood which produces unsightly lumps or swellings in the neck; which causes running sores on the arms, legs, or feet; which develops ulcers in the eyes, ears, or nose, often causing blindness or deafness; which is the origin of pimples, cancerous growths, or "humors;" which, fastening upon the lungs, causes consumption and death. It is the most ancient of all diseases, and very few persons are entirely free from it.

How Can It Be CURED

By taking Hood's Sarsaparilla, which, by the remarkable cures it has accomplished, has proven itself to be a potent and peculiar medicine for this disease. If you suffer from scrofula, try Hood's Sarsaparilla.

"Every spring my wife and children have been troubled with scrofula, my little boy, three years old, being a terrible sufferer. Last spring he was one mass of sores from head to feet. We all took Hood's Sarsaparilla, and all have been cured of the scrofula. My little boy is entirely free from sores, and all four of my children look bright and healthy." W. B. THE WAY THEY DO THINGS

On Railroads Here and Hereabouts.

The W. & L. E. and Its Wheeling Terminals.

The C., H. V. & T. Engineers—Earnings of the T., C. & C. and the T. & O. C.—Other Matters of Local Interest.

The railroad associations are always evolving great schemes that wont carry their own weight, just like that well-known individual, Col. Sellers. Generally these schemes are at the inconvenience of the traveling public, like the limited ticket movement. They might be likened unto a theatrical manager who advertises and hustles for business only to put those who come through an intricate red tape process and stipulate that they shall not go out between acts, but must buy a limited ticket and stick the performance through at one sitting. At least this is the way the public looks at the matter, but then, of course, the public be d—.

Another one of these newly patented schemes is now being worked in connection with the granting of a one and one-third fare rate to meetings of various kinds. Just at present the body desiring such a rate must pay an agent to come and stand around and look pleasant at $6 a day and $5 for his railroad sleeper.

Now take this arrangement home to Toledo. The Central Ohio conference of the M. E. church is soon to meet here. A reduced rate has been asked for, but to get it some one must put up the cash for the agent. As it happens, this body has no regular organization. The bishop acts as president, and a temporary secretary is generally appointed. There is no treasurer, no dues, and consequently no treasury. No money is needed to run the body and none is used. Now, who is to pay the agent? In instances like this the members where the meeting is to be held don't always feel able to pay the required amount for the questionable services of the agent, and so the matter stands in many cases.

By and by the red tape will accumulate in such quantities that the poor traveling public will be so tangled that they will be unable to reach the trains. Then they will make a grand kick and walk, until the railroad companies will be compelled to come around like the two unfortunates in La Mascotte, and solicit business with presents of lead pencils and cheap chromos.

Railroad Man Married.

Yesterday, at St. Francis de Sales church, S. A. Stalcup and Miss May McCabe were united in marriage, Rev. Dr. Quigley performing the ceremony. The groom is train dispatcher on the river division of the Wheeling & Lake Erie railroad, and has many friends among the railroad men, who wish him much happiness.

The Reason o' It.

Quite a number of people wonder why when the Central Traffic association authorizes excursion rates on the certificate plan from this territory, that points in Michigan are almost always excepted. It might seem that Michigan lines were being discriminated against, but such is not the case. The Michigan lines don't want any lower rate than the law compels, and just at present that is low enough, they think. In Ohio, where the rate per mile is 3 cents, the excursion rate of one and one-third fare for the round trip makes the rate 2 cents a mile, just what the Michigan lines get regularly. Should Michigan lines make a like reduction they would be getting only 1 1-3 cents a mile. And this is the principal reason why Central Traffic circulars state "from all points except Michigan."

The C., H. V. & T. Employes Answered.

The matter of wages and grievances of the Columbus, Hocking Valley & Toledo engineers and firemen mentioned in yesterday's Bee has been considered by the company. The officials stated that while the company felt disposed to adjust grievances and grant any concessions possible, the wage scale was in the main higher than on other roads. Some classes of wages were lower than on other roads, but not as low as the lowest, while in some cases they were higher than other roads.

In the matter of overtime, the principle grievance of the men, the company showed that they were doing as much as other roads which pay overtime and also that some roads don't pay for overtime. The company could not grant more than they were giving neither could they give engineers annual passes and firemen in the service over three years similar privileges. The company stated that men in other branches of the service were justified in having higher wages first, but the competition, present rates and possibilities for future business of the road precluded it at this time.

Coming Here To-morrow.

For some time the Wheeling & Lake Erie railroad company has desired to secure an entrance into Wheeling, W. V. The company has done much of late in the way of spreading out and bettering the road and now it looks as if the Wheeling project would be speedily consummated as to-morrow N. W. Earys, general manager of the Wheeling Bridge and Terminal company, will come to Toledo and have a meeting with the Wheeling & Lake Erie officials for the purpose of negotiating terms with the road for the use of the Wheeling Terminal bridge and tracks at that city.

Both Show Increases.

The earnings of the Toledo & Ohio Central railroad for the month of August amounted to $141,345, an increase of $4,214 over the same month of last year.

The earnings of the Toledo, Columbus & Cincinnati railroad for August, 1891, were $28,170, an increase of $2,048 compared with August of 1890.

Cinders Here and There.

General Manager Ashley, of the T., A. A. & N. M., is up on the line.

T. J. Clark, traveling passenger agent of the Chicago & Rock Island, is in the city.

E. C. Oriatt, traveling passenger agent of the Manitoba-Pacific, was in town yesterday.

General Passenger Agent Moulton Houk, of the Toledo & Ohio Central, is down the line to-day.

General Manager F. B. Drake, of the Cincinnati, Jackson & Mackinaw, has returned from a trip over the line.

J. M. Hall, general passenger agent of the Wheeling & Lake Erie railroad, will return from Chicago to-morrow.

Superintendent W. R. Woodford, of the Wheeling & Lake Erie railroad, returned last evening from an eastern trip.

Low rates have been refused to the meeting of the Wabash General Association of Detective Companies at Greenville, O., October 15.

A rate of one and one-third fares for the round trip has been authorized from this territory to the national convention, W. C. T. U., at Boston, November 11-20.

The new shops of the Toledo, Columbus & Cincinnati railroad at Kenton are now complete and running. The finishing touches were put on this week.

The work of ballasting of the Toledo, Columbus & Cincinnati railroad between Toledo and Kenton is almost completed, and the road is in excellent shape.

The F. & P. M. has issued a notice to the effect that the office of the general baggage master has been abolished, and that all matters in this connection are to be referred to the traffic manager.

General Passenger Agent W. H. Fisher, of the Columbus, Hocking Valley & Toledo railroad, is in town to-day. He says that the road is booming right along and that business promises to be lively this fall.

A meeting of the Central Traffic association freight department will be held Tuesday at Chicago. There has been no meeting for two months and considerable business will come up. The meeting will probably last three days.

TREASURER A. W. BELLOWS

Of Sylvania Disappears in Toledo

After Drawing His Money from the Bank—A Search Instituted To-day—A Mysterious Affair.

Sylvania comes to the front to-day with the nucleus of a mysterious disappearance, one of the best known men of that place having come to Toledo and faded suddenly out of existence as if he was swallowed up by a hole in the air.

It seems that yesterday morning A. W. Bellows, the well known treasurer of Sylvania township and village, drove to Toledo in company with the postmaster of his town. Mr. Bellows was to have returned to Sylvania in the afternoon, as he had promised to be present at a meeting of the village council last evening to settle up certain matters.

The meeting had been called for this purpose, but when the fathers of the corporation gathered they could only sit and wait, for the treasurer did not materalize.

The postmaster too was away all night, and when he returned to Sylvania this morning he told that he had lost Mr. Bellows, and after waiting all night for him concluded to return alone.

This morning Mrs. Bellows came to Toledo in company with a constable in search of the missing man. They proceeded to the Union Savings bank and there found that he had drawn all his money out yesterday morning.

Up to the time of going to press no further clue has been discovered. It is not known what Mr. Bellows' strange disappearance signifies. Investigations are proceeding, and it is hoped shortly to stumble on some definite clue to the matter.

A. C. Jones, superintendent of the schools at Sylvania, is also in the city looking for Mr. Bellows. The latter had promised Mr. Jones to be back last night.

The Toledo police were put on the case this morning.

Mrs. Bellows says she is positive that her husband had no intention of appropriating funds that did not belong to him. She fears that there has been foul play.

REDFERN'S DIVORCE.

New York's Swell Ladies' Tailor Says His Wife Is Unfaithful.

Ernest A. R. Redfern, the ladies' tailor is suing Catherine M. P. P. M. Redfern for an absolute divorce in the common pleas court. As the wife resides in London, Judge Bischoff granted to-day an order for the service of the summons upon her by publication. They were married in England, October 1, 1889. The bride was then scarcely 20 years of age. She came of good family, and was well known in London society. Her husband is nine years her senior.

In the complaint the husband says his wife's improper conduct began within a very few months after their marriage. Then they separated, the plaintiff coming to this country and his wife remaining in London.

DEMOCRATS AT CALDWELL.

FATALLY INJURED.

Tiffin, O., Sept. 2.—Willie Grass, the 9-year old son of William Grass, of this city, was fatally injured last evening while attempting to board a south-bound freight train on the Big Four road.

He fell under the wheels and both of his legs were run over above the knee, his right arm was torn out from the shoulder and his face frightfully lacerated. One of the employes saw the boy slip but before the train could be stopped the wheels had passed over his legs.

CHARGED WITH CRIME.

Boston, Sept. 2.—In the Somerville police court to-day John N. Winkley, of the firm of Winkley & Maddox, ice dealers, was held in $2,500 for the grand jury on the charge of being an accessory after the fact to a criminal operation committed upon the person of Alice E. Richardson, a girl of 20, who died at her sister's house, Mrs. Tallman, in Somerville, July 7.

ROBBED BY A MOB.

Winnipeg, Sept. 2.—Word was received here of a daring robbery at Nelson, B. C., a mining town on the Kootena river. An armed man entered the Canadian Pacific railroad station and after binding the agent opened the safe and secured $2,000. Another man came in at the time and he was made to hand over what money he had. The robber escaped.

DIED AT 100.

Oneida, N. Y., Sept. 2.—Miss Betsy Wormwood died yesterday at her home in Sconondon, Oneida county, about two miles from here at the age of 100 years, six months and eight days. School will soon be in session and the children must have clothes, and old garments about the house will be a big help.

NOW IT IS BIGAMY.

Herman Gelop, the man with two families, whose story was published exclusively in the Bee yesterday, is still in prison and now has a charge of bigamy placed against him.

Attorney Curtis appeared in police court this morning and asked that Gelop be released as no affidavit had been filed against him. The judge refused to do this, and the prosecutor made out the affidavit for bigamy later.

SOMETHING OF AN ITEM.

The enterprising reporters on the Hillsdale Standard will never lack for news, as the following sample of local happenings testifies:

"We haven't seen it, but we have heard that R. M. Cellars now boasts of owning the finest and nicest barn in every respect to be found in Amboy township. Orson Titus was the builder and W. E. Osborn spread the paint."

TOLEDO MAN GOES TO CANTON.

At the session of the city council of Canton on Monday evening, Mr. L. E. Chapin, of Toledo, was elected city civil engineer, to succeed Mr. Marble. Speaking of the appointment the News-Democrats says:

"Mr. Chapin, the newly chosen engineer, comes to the city highly recommended and it is to be hoped that he will turn out as well as his recommendations indicate that he will. He was in the city one day last week, and gentlemen who met him speak of him in the highest terms."

LET THE BOYS DOWN.

Seig, Kessner, Smith and Conroy, the four small boys convicted yesterday in police court of stealing pictures from Bell's soap factory and sentenced to the reform farm have been released. The parents of the boys employed council in their behalf and Judge Sala reopened the case this morning. It was shown that this was their first offense, and as the boys had hitherto borne good reputations the judge mitigated their sentence to three hours in the city prison and gave them a good lecture.

TEMPLE IMPROVEMENTS

The Bee some days since mentioned the action of the directors of the Masonic temple association with regard to the improvement of the building. The action of the water board last night removes the last obstacle, and work will begin immediately. Armstrong & Clark will use the rooms vacated by the water works trustees, an archway connecting the new quarters. An elevator will be put in and the big building will take on some of the modern improvements. While the masons are to be congratulated on the placing of an elevator, the contemplated improvement will be appreciated by Armstrong & Clarke, who will thus have room to turn around. It was not all that was desired but will help.

AT THE WATERWORKS OFFICE.

The regular monthly meeting of the waterworks trustees was held last evening. A number of applications for extensions of pipe were received and referred, while some were approved. Satisfactory arrangements were made between the trustees and the Masonic temple directors, and the office will be moved into the room now occupied by the city auditor. Secretary Estell submitted the following financial statement:

LUCAS COUNTY TEACHERS.

The Program To-Day—Attractions for To-Morrow.

The attendance at the Teachers' institute was larger than any day since the meeting opened, there being 250 teachers enrolled. Miss Osgood introduced to-day's program with a lecture on primary reading, followed by Prof. Adams, on advanced arithmetic. The feature of the program, was Prof. Brumbaugh's talk on advanced reading. He recited Gray's elegy, and several other short poems, that perfectly captured his hearers.

To-morrow morning at 9:15 Prof. Brumbaugh will speak on Geography. At 10:40 Miss Osgood will take up the subject of primary geography. At 11:30 Prof. Adams will conduct a quiz. In the afternoon Prof. Adams will speak of the cultural value of history. Miss Osgood will talk about writing at 2:10. At 3:30 Prof. Brumbaugh is to take up the question of the true teacher's professional qualifications.

State School Commissioner C. C. Miller and W. W. Ross, of Fremont, will be here to-morrow. Both will deliver addresses.

This has been thus far the most successful institute held in this county for years, which is very gratifying to the teachers and all concerned.

Frosts Did Not Cut Much of a Figure This Year—Review of the Situation.

Washington, Sept. 2.—The weather crop bulletin of the weather bureau for August, issued to-day, says the month was warmer than usual on the Atlantic coast, in the lower lake region, Michigan and all the states on the Pacific coast, but it was cooler than the average temperature for August throughout the central valleys.

The excess in temperature amounted to about 2 degrees per day in southern New England and southeast New York, and it ranged from 2 degrees to 4 degrees per day on the Pacific coast. In the west portion of the cotton region and thence northward to Iowa the deficiency in temperature amounted to about 2 degrees per day.

Frosts occurred in the extreme northwest at about the usual time, near the 20th, but the wheat crop was so well advanced that only very slight damage occurred in the extreme northern boundary of Minnesota and North Dakota. Frosts reached the northern boundary of Iowa, but reports generally indicate that no material injury resulted to the corn crop.

Preceding the occurrence of these frosts warnings were sent by this service to the cranberry and tobacco regions of Wisconsin which enabled the farmers to take the usual precautions to prevent injury to the crops.

Reports indicate that the frosts were quite severe in exposed localities in this region and that the cranberry crop has been injured, although much benefit must have resulted from the frost warnings which enabled the growers to flood the marshes.

During the month of August the rainfall has been greater than usual in the interior of New England and the Middle Atlantic states and from Virginia southward over South Carolina, the heaviest rains occurring in the last named state, where the total precipitation ranged from six to eleven inches.

The rainfall was also in excess of the lake region westward to the Pacific coast, along the northern boundary of the United States and in the states of the central Mississippi valley.

Portions of Texas and Colorado also report limited areas of excessive rain.

Over the greater portion of the cotton region the rainfall was much less than usual and on the east gulf coast and in southern Louisiana the deficiency in rainfall ranged from four to six inches.

The corn crop is late and will probably require two weeks more of favorable weather to place it beyond injury from frost. Of course this does not apply to the condition of the crop in southern Kansas, and thence eastward to Tennessee and Kentucky, where at this date the crop is well advanced.

Reports from the cotton region indicate that unfavorable weather has resulted in permanent injury to crops in some sections, especially in Alabama, where shedding will materially reduce the yield, while in Texas the yield may remain the same as last year.

OFFICE OF THE TOLEDO BEE, }
TOLEDO, O., Sept. 2. }

London wheat market quiet, inactive, and 3 pence per quarter lower. Corn steady. Liverpool wheat 1 to 1¼ pence lower. Corn firm.

The receipts of wheat to-day at seven principal western points are 1,407,775 bu, compared with 355,411 bu on the same day last year.

California wheat movement.—The receipts at San Francisco in the week ending Aug. 26 equaled 810,213 bu of wheat and 30,021 bbls of flour. The exports equaled 955,881 bu of wheat and 27,358 bbls of flour.

Concerning London quotations of California and red winter wheat; say 40s for California, and 41s and 6d for red winter. Mr. J. E. Beerbohm writes, that the remote delivery is the basis of the difference in value. He says, that California for prompt shipment might not arrive here until January next, and that red winter for prompt shipment would reach here in September. The actual difference in spot value (say at Antwerp) on August 5, was only about 1s to 1s 6d per qr.

The receipts of grain at Toledo, July 1 to August 29 this year have been as follows:

	Wheat, bus	Corn, bus	Oats, bus	Rye, bus.	Barley, bus
1891..	16,358,835	364,760	144,442	1,018,720	16,000
1890..	3,071,102	1,992,476	95,964	66,487	32,440

During the same period of time, St. Louis received 8,602,000 bu of wheat, and Chicago 13,441,000 bu.

The Chicago "Bulletin" says the No. 2 wheat received in August, at Chicago, was 38 per cent of the aggregate. In Toledo the wheat by cars in July and August gives 81 59 100 per cent contract grade. Of 101 canal boat loads, 92 per cent was contract grade of wheat.

The receipts of wheat at seven principal western points to-day are 1,042,334 bu, in excess of the corresponding Wednesday in 1890.

The export clearances yesterday from the Atlantic ports were 314,027 bu of wheat and flour to an aggregate of 400,000 bu.

English markets as reported herein are weak and lower for wheat and steady for corn.

The grain markets of this country are very much depressed again to-day. Foreign markets are weak and lower and such weakness is sure to be reflected on this side. The receipts of wheat are now much increased by the movement in the northwest, but in the interior the farmers deliveries of winter wheat are beginning to decrease. Indeed the movement to the lake ports from the interior is generally view from the elevators. Farmers are plowing and seeding all over the winter wheat belt.

The Vienna congress has been of no material aid to the statistical position that we can discover. We print their table, but if we had room and time and inclination we could show its contrasts with other authorities perhaps quite as reliable. Rest in peace.

The wheat markets continued weak until the close and declined sharply.

Corn participated in the slump and closes lower. Foreign markets are also reported as closing lower.

In New York September wheat closed 1⅞c and December 1¾c lower. September corn closed 1⅜c and October 2½c lower. In Chicago September wheat closed 1⅞c and December 1¾c lower. September corn ⅝c and October 1⅜c lower.

In Toledo we have had another dull and dragging market, and which was very weak from the start and prices have steadily declined. On the call December wheat sold at $1 03⅞ to $1 03¼. After the call September sold at 99½c to $1 01⅝, and closed at 98⅝c, a loss or 1⅜c; December sold at $1 03⅜ to $1 04, and closed at $1 02⅝, a loss of 1⅞c.

Cash wheat was moderately active and lower; No 2 sold at 99½@1 00, and closed at 98⅝c, a loss of 1⅜c; No 3 soft at 98c; 97½c; No 4 soft at 94c; rejected No 1 at 87@90c; No 2 at 80c. No 1 white at 97c; No 2 white at 95c; No 3, 92. No 3 red and white at 95c. Rye and wheat at 75c.

Corn—No 2 at 65c; No 3 at 64¼c; No 2 yellow at 66c; No 3 yellow at 65c; No 2 white at 64½c.

Oats—No 2 at 31c; No 3 at 28c.

Rye was more active and dearer; No 2 opened at 89c; cash and September sold up to 90c.

Clover seed—September sold at $4 90 to 4 85, closing at $4 90; October, $4 85; December at $4 90.

Bradstreet's Report of Visible Supply.

Wheat increased 1,594,000, corn 1,394,000, oats 1,281,000 bu. Wheat, Pacific coast, increased 21,000 bu.

The stock market was very active this morning, and with higher London prices the opening here was ⅛@⅜ per cent higher for general list, while L. & N. made a gain of 1½ per cent. Union Pacific, N. Y. C. & St. L. and Chicago gas were exceptions to the general market, being fractionally lower. Immediately after the opening Union Pacific became the feature. It was heavily pressed for sale and fell from 47½@47. Burlington came next with a decline of 1 per cent. The weakness of these stocks caused the general market to react, and by 11 o'clock the opening advance had been wholly lost. In the hour to noon there were further heavy realizations especially in Union Pacific, Michigan, C. C. C. & St. L., R. I., West Union, St. P., L. & N. and Chicago gas. About the lowest prices of the morning were current at noon. Union Pacific was down 2¾ per cent. The decline in the remainder of the list ranged from ⅛@1⅝ per cent. Why have the world's fair commissioners neglected to secure the co-operation of the Congo free state? Are they, too, drawing the color line?

Balmaceda is reported to have taken thirty tons of bullion silver from the Chilian treasury with him when he fled. This reminds us of the last days of the Fifty-first congress.

America is thrice blessed, indeed, in this year's harvests. The latest report is on the oyster crop, which is pronounced "plenteous, fat and juicy." And this is a month with an "r" in it.

Prince Russell is a bigger man than Secretary Foster, after all. The revenue cutter will "escort" to her dock the steamer on which the Harrison ladies return. If the secretary does not like Collector Fassett's course in placing the cutter at Russell's disposal, he can remonstrate with Boss Platt.

The attitude of the United States toward the Chilian insurgents has been throughout unfortunate, and the department of state is convicted of a diplomatic blunder that overshadows all the jingo triumphs over which Secretary Blaine's friends cackle so loudly.

President Andrew D. White of Cornell is willing to accept the republican nomination for governor of New York if it is tendered him unanimously, and if the platform is acceptable to him. Yet Mr. White knows that along with the nomination and platform he would have to accept Thomas C. Platt and all that Plattism implies, knowing which he should not be too particular about the platform declarations.

In discussing the candidates for speaker of the next house of representatives it would be well for the friends of the gentlemen who are in the race to remember that the democratic party does not, never did, and never can recognize sectional lines. The party has a wealth of good candidates for this honor, and the speaker selected will represent the democracy of all the country, not of a section.

Secretary Foster is at least refreshingly frank in his ruling on the civil service law, and in that respect only differs from his colleagues. As he suggests to the clerks whom he desires shall contribute to the Ohio campaign fund, the openings in the law are "wide," and there is no danger of their getting into trouble if they contribute time and money for partisan work. His listening officeholders no doubt understand the situation too well to withhold their "voluntary" contributions now that the secretary has spoken.

It is not a thing for Americans to be proud of that the census returns from Alaska show a falling off in the native population of 25 per cent. in ten years, and the decadence is due almost entirely to excessive use of liquor by the natives, liquor which is supplied by United States traders. We appreciate the sarcasm that lurks in the comment on England's efforts to enlighten the heathen by "sending them missionaries and rum," and we ought to feel shame to know that the simple Alaskans are being tempted by christianized people into an appetite for the fire-water the Indians found so fatal.

The peculiar circular which Postmaster General Wanamaker sent out to "the postmaster at each county seat" is meeting with no end of ridicule. The county-seat postmaster is "requested" to visit each office in his county, at his own expense, and as "a voluntary offering for the good of the service." The opinion is offered that the postmaster-general is outside of his prerogative in preferring a request for service which is not required by law, and which the law would probably provide for if there was any need of it, any good to the service or the country to result from it. Postmasters who receive the circular will feel the request is a command, and will doubtless do the work at a personal loss and to the neglect of their proper business. The Philadelphia Record says:

In the county of Chester there are not less than 150 postoffices which the postmaster at the county seat is required to visit at his own expense and report upon before the middle of October. In the meantime who is to take care of the business of his own postoffice while he is absent supervising the business of other people? In many counties some postoffices are more important than that at the county seat. Why, then, should the postmaster at the county seat be exclusively selected for the task, unless it be designed to promote other ends besides the good of public service?

It is possible that "the business man of the cabinet" has made another mistake. Even possible that he will not through this circular further the cause he intended to serve, which, it is needless perhaps to say, was not his country.

THE LAWS OF TRADE.

The New York Commercial Bulletin reads a lesson on modern business methods in connection with the collapse of the rubber syndicate. Briefly stated, the late manipulation of rubber, which came to a sudden end with loss to the manipulators, was as follows: A speculator named Vianna secured the backing of a syndicate of London bankers, who are said to have pledged no less than $50,000,000 to support his scheme of cornering the rubber market. Besides carrying the stock of rubber from last year's crop, he undertook to buy enough of this year's crop to keep up the price. American bankers and speculators kept out of the deal, having been involved by Vianna in one in 1883, when he forced the price of rubber from 40 cents to $1.25, and then the price broke and the rubber was left on his hands to be sold at less than the natural market price. The break in 1883 resulted from a combination of American manufacturers of rubber goods, who closed their works and refused to buy at the advanced prices.

American manufacturers and dealers were again successful this year in breaking Mr. Vianna's combination. For months they have been crippled by the artificial price of rubber, but have refrained from doing a full business and waited for a reaction. The large quantities of this year's rubber crop, which the syndicate was forced to buy up, first weakened it. Then the American manufacturers, instead of using what stock they had, sold and shipped the most of it to Liverpool. The London firms involved in the deal, one of which was the Barings, became alarmed and began to unload, and prices dropped from 84 cents to 64 cents, tons of rubber were thrown on the market at the lower figure, the combination was broken, and the syndicate went to pieces. The lesson the Commercial Bulletin reads from this is well put:

Experience teaches that no law, in this or any other country, is effective to prevent such conspiracies against public interest. The only safeguard that the public has, is found in the fact that laws of trade are against every combination to make the necessaries of civilized life unnaturally costly, and whenever such an attempt is made all the forces of modern commerce tend to embarrass and finally to crush it.

The motives of the operation are just the same, whether the conspirators are speculative gamblers, French copper dealers, British bankers, Southern planters or Western Alliances. The object is to extort from the public an artificial price for a product of universal necessity, and thus to plunder millions of consumers in order to enrich certain individuals. The laws of trade, laws of human origin, always work for the ultimate benefit and protection of millions of consumers.

Bankruptcy, imprisonment, and now and then suicide, were the penalties paid by those who contrived the copper corner, and by the gamblers and financiers of Chicago, San Francisco and Cincinnati, who have engineered corners in wheat.

An Ohio correspondent presents an outline in to-day's Times of an intrigue between Secretary Foster and the president against both Senator Sherman and Mr. McKinley. The story savors of Ohio republican methods. It recalls the successful posing of Garfield, and the unsuccessful posturing and haranguing of McKinley and Foraker before the convention that nominated Mr. Harrison. It shows how firm a hold this style of politics has upon the brethren of the g. o. p. in Ohio. With Foraker and Foster united against Mr. Sherman, and having the open support of the president, there is great danger that the campaign recently opened may degenerate into a personal contest between republican leaders.—Chicago Times.

This birdseye view of republican politics in Ohio is correct. And the treachery toward one another shown by the shining lights of the party runs through the entire line of the party bosses. The setting up of the league club machine against the state executive committee is an example. The Bee shares the regret the Times expresses that "the personal equation in the party question" has been injected into the campaign. In November this will be cited as one of the reasons for the democratic victory, when as a matter of fact that victory will have been achieved because the people voted to rebuke unnecessary tariff taxation and to indorse Gov. Campbell's administration.

DONT AGREE WITH HIM.

McKinley said in a recent speech that mortgages were a blessing. There are a great many people in Hancock county who have been obliged to put a mortgage on their property on account of the robber tariff, who do not agree with Mr McKinley, and they will express their opinion on the subject at the polls this fall.—Findlay Courier.

ABANDONED THEIR FIRST POSITION.

The republican press of Ohio in abandoning the discussion of the McKinley tariff have disowned the principle upon which their party nominated McKinley. How can they expect to elect him? The people everywhere are wide awake and discussing his tariff, before everything else, whether those pigmy organ grinders will or not.—Sandusky Journal.

NEITHER PROFITABLE NOR PATRIOTIC.

Reciprocity that gives the foreigner a chance to buy American goods at less than American prices, and that keeps the price of foreign products unchanged to the American purchaser, is not precisely in the line of either profit or patriotism.—Boston Globe.

A PROBABILITY.

Secretary Foster is about to visit Bar Harbor. When that section of the conversation between the secretary of state and the secretary of the treasury relative to the next presidency comes on, it is not probable that the mint julep expert may be overworked; indeed, it may be a long time between drinks.—Dayton Times.

DON'T EXPLAIN THAT.

Mr. John Sherman has not arisen as yet to state how many honest dollars there are in one of the Thousand-Dollar fiat-money legal-tender treasury certificates issued to Wall street speculators under the Bullion Swindle.—St. Louis Republic.

WHERE DO THEY STAND?

Where do the republican leaders stand on the issue of free coinage? That is what some people are trying to find out, but the utterances of McKinley, John Sherman or President Harrison give no certain sign.—Boston Globe.

LEADS TO THE SUSPICION.

The tenacity displayed by Major McKinley in making the silver question the issue in his campaign leads to the suspicion that he may be Young-Man-Afraid-of-His-Bill-McKinley.—Indianapolis Sentinel.

THIS IS TRUE.

The republicans of Ohio want to make the democratic position on free coinage the leading issue in this campaign, yet six republican state conventions have this fall declared for free coinage.—Fostoria Democrat.

DAWN OF A BETTER DAY.

At last the return of gold from the other side of this country has set in. That means the dawn of a better day for Uncle Sam and all his people. Let us proceed to felicitate ourselves and be happy.—Boston Herald.

MUST BE HUMILIATING.

It must be somewhat humiliating for the Napoleon of high tariff to dismount from his gayly caparisoned hobby horse and ride behind on Sherman's golden calf.—New Orleans Delta.

THE SHODDY BUSINESS.

The next time President Harrison goes out to talk politics, let him not omit to mention the rapid growth of the shoddy business under the McKinley law.—Courier Journal.

HOPES WILL BE BLASTED.

Ohio has 26,000,000 pounds of wool to sell this year, and still McKinley hopes to be elected.—Chicago Times.

PIE FOR THE DEMOCRATS

Wood County Republicans Engaged in a Merry War,

Which Will Make Election of the Democratic Ticket

A Strong Probability—People Kicking on the Bowling Green Ring and Its Methods—Diver's Chances—Democratic Opinion.

North Baltimore, Sept. 2.—(Special)—The ticket nominated by the democrats of Wood county at this place yesterday is a corker, and has all the ear marks of a winner. Here it is:

Representative, O. A. Diver, Prairie Depot; treasurer, J. E. Holmes, Weston; recorder, A. W. Strouse, Perry township; commissioner, W. F. Fry, Henry township; infirmary auditor, John Troxel, Bowling Green; coroner, Daniel Klinger, Perrysburg.

There is not a weak place in the entire ticket, and it will come very near being elected in its entirety.

The nominee for representative, O. A. Diver, is a well-known citizen of Montgomery township. All his life has been spent on a farm, until a year ago, when he moved to Prairie Depot, and for the benefit of his neighbors and friends, started an exchange bank, which was a necessity, owing to the immense oil business of that locality.

Mr. Diver has been for years trustee and justice of the peace, being elected year after year, in a township which has a normal republican majority of over a hundred. He is a prominent K. of P. and Odd Fellow and has hosts of friends who will hustle for his election.

Mr. Holmes, the candidate for county treasurer, is another popular man with all classes.

He has been for years cashier of the bank at Weston and is a fine accountant. At the present time he is mayor of Weston and as popular a young man as there is in Wood county. He has the toughest fight ahead of him of any man on the ticket, but thinks he can win.

The balance of the ticket is made up of young men who will wage an aggressive fight upon the demoralized ranks of the enemy in Wood. They are of the best type of citizens and were not nominated by a clique but by their party. There are no sores to heal.

The Republican Row.

The republican of Wood county are unquestionably in a demoralized condition, and this state of affairs may be directly attributed to the efforts of the Bowling Green ring, a combination of men who have for years sought to dictate nominations and run things in their own interests.

The people are tired of this and have for years waited patiently for an opportunity to throw the gang overboard, and it looks now as if the time was at hand. A little history of the present quarrel will doubtless be interesting.

For years it has been the custom among the republicans of Wood county, and democrats as well, to hold mass conventions each year, for the purpose of nominating their ticket. No change in this long established plan had been discussed, nor were the rank and file aware of any contemplated design to change the existing order of affairs, until the call issued by the central committee for a delegate instead of mass convention, had been published.

The people became indignant, and asserting that the innovation was made solely at the suggestion of the "ring" for purposes of its own, refused to recognize the authority of the committee to call a delegate convention, without the authorization of the party at large, and called a mass convention, that a ticket might be nominated in the old fashioned way.

The latter convention met first and without any particularly hot contests placed an excellent ticket in nomination, headed by O. P. Norris, of Perry township, for representative. Mr. Norris is an old soldier, has long been a republican worker, and the nomination was conceded to him.

When the delegate convention met, the first thing it did, was to indorse all the ticket nominated by the mass convention, except Mr. Norris. The ring objected to him for various reasons and the fine Italian hand of Auditor Poe is visible in the transaction. It was whispered about that Norris was a Sherman man.

Poe is for Foraker, and so is John Hankey, and so for that matter is the entire "ring." Hankey said Norris would not do, and Poe said he would not do, and the ring chimed in. Norris was therefore bounced, and dictators Hankey and Poe said that the place must be given to B. F. James, of Bowling Green, one of the ring, and a man who is in sympathy with the senatorial aspirations of ex-Gov. Foraker.

He was therefore nominated and Norris was taken off the ticket. The latter has never said he would not run on the regular mass convention ticket and there are therefore two republican candidates for representative in Wood county.

James, personally, is all right; a bright young fellow and all that, but the farmers object to him because he has only been in the county three or four years, and do not see why an old resident like Norris should be shelved for a newcomer. They also assert that the Bowling Green "ring," controlled by Hankey, Poe et al, does not carry the vote of Wood county republicans in its pocket.

For these reasons they are particularly sore and it would be no surprise to see the entire democratic ticket elected. It is not a mere possibility but a strong probability.

Opinions From Democrats.

About North Baltimore democrats are very hopeful. Henry township is democratic, but the town of North Baltimore is republican, although the business men of the place are nearly all democrats.

Judge S. F. Harrison, one of the leading democrats of the place, was asked why this was so.

"It is for the reason," he answered, "that nearly all of the glassblowers who come here to work are republicans. They generally belong in Pennsylvania and have so completely swallowed the protection dose that it is impossible to reason with them. They consider a heavy tariff on glass a necessity and will not believe that a foreign market for glass would increase the business and make their wages higher. Were duty taken off soda ash, there is no question but that the glass manufacturers of this county could supply the world with their wares."

"Do you know of any people's partyites about North Baltimore?"

"None. The party has not secured a foothold here, and it is not likely that it will this campaign. I know of republicans who will vote the democratic ticket, and I am of the opinion that democracy will have a boom this fall in North Baltimore. I think also that the county will go democratic this year."

Squire B. L. Peters, of the First national bank, an old resident of North Baltimore, said:

"Yes, I think democrats will carry Wood county this year. The signs indicate it, and the party is harmonious. The farmers are prosperous but they do not thank the republican party for it. They thank Providence who sent the sunshine and the rain at the proper times. This protective business is a great farce and people are becoming more enlightened on the subject every year. When a man once strikes a point, from which he can reason intelligently, he resolves to quit the protection fraud at once."

S. W. Nigh, one of the city fathers of the town, said to the BEE:

"We are in splendid shape in Wood county this year, and will make a bitter fight against the republican party which has for years been drinking the life blood of the farmers of Wood county. The ticket nominated today will be a winner, and all democrats will work this year for a general victory. We expect to give an increased democratic majority in Henry township this fall."

O. F. Bryant, of Prairie Depot, said: "Republicans in my locality are very indignant because of the bouncing of Norris from the ticket, and they will make trouble. Mr. Diver, our candidate, is a clean man, very popular, and will make a hot fight. There is every indication of his election."

The democratic cause in Wood county, and especially in southern Wood, received a decided addition when G. G. Grimes and his paper, the North Baltimore Times, came into the fold. Mr. Grimes is an able writer and will do valiant work for the cause of democracy. His paper has much prestige and and a resolution was introduced at the convention yesterday pledging the democracy of Wood county to his support.

Mr. J. M. Burke, proprietor of the New Burke hotel, and a staunch democrat, said:

"This is a big democratic year, and you will see the greatest victory all over for the party which favors low taxes and good government. Wood county will go democratic."

Such seems to be the general opinion of Wood county democrats, and it need not surprise anybody if the predictions come true. It is reasonably certain that Diver will beat James for representative, and the remainder of the ticket has the best chance for election that any democratic ticket has had for years in Wood county.

LABOR NOTES.

Three new members were admitted to the Painters' union last night.

Bricklayers' union last evening determined not to send delegates to the Building Trades council, inasmuch as under their form of government they could not carry out the decrees of the council, if any were made. The union also declined to participate in the parade next Monday.

Joseph Pfaffenberger has been chosen as marshal of the Willow Workers' union in Monday's parade. A beautiful badge has been secured, and banners and flags will wave in profusion. It is expected to have a drum corps to furnish music.

Labor day was the principal subject of discussion before the Barbers' union last night. The members will wear a silk hat, white vest and cane. Three new members were admitted, and some applications were received. Thomas Bulton was elected as delegate to the international convention, and C. M. Garside alternate.

A HIDDEN TREASURE.

Digging in the Streets of Kansas City, Mo.

Five Men Who Think They Have Struck a Lead Which Will Yield Rich Returns.

Kansas City, Mo., Sept. 2.—Five Kansas City (Ks.) men think they are going to dig up a fortune in the south part of this city. Three years ago, in doing some street work for the city on Twenty-third street, about where Walnut would be if extended, David S. Weir, one of the men, noticed that some bricks were unearthed.

He thought nothing of it at the time, but since then has heard some stories of buried treasure that have set him to thinking.

One is that 40 years ago a rich Spaniard was travelling through this country with an immense treasure of gold and silver with him. Being afraid of Indians he buried his treasure on the lonely bank of the little "branch" that runs off in a southerly direction from the intersection of Twenty-third street and Walnut street extended.

Another version of the tale says that three rich Englishmen were traveling through this part of the country during the civil war. They camped one night on the bank of the little stream, and being afraid that one or the other of the opposing forces and marauding bands would get their wealth, they buried it.

One of them was soon afterward killed, another has since died and the third came back not many years since to look for the gold but could not locate the spot where it was buried.

Hearing these stories and knowing of the unearthing of bricks near the spot, five men, of whom Mr. Weir is one, associated themselves together to search for the fabulous wealth so long in its tomb.

There is little instrument for finding hidden treasure, which works on the plan of the forked stick which water witches have long successfully used. But this instrument does not grow. It is made by man, and the material used is steel.

It is about four inches long and has 12 eyes on each side which can look down, down, down through any kind of stubborn strata and discover earth's hidden secrets. The manipulators of the instrument put it on a stick free to turn, and whenever it comes over a spot where there is silver or gold, the theory is it will dive like a duck.

This instrument was tried on the bank of the stream mentioned and it pointed straight to where the bricks were found.

This is immediately under the sidewalk on the south side of Twenty-third street, a little west of a continuous line from Walnut. It is on the edge of a bluff overlooking the Belt Line, and the hills and gullies around give the place a wild weird appearance.

A few scraggy trees grow in the vicinity, and about five feet east of the spot where the treasures is supposed to be buried an elm tree casts its shadow. A little farther than that to the west there is another elm, and about ten feet south an oak spreads its branches. It is a good spot for hiding away a fortune, and the men at work think it is the place where the treasure is buried.

A hole has been dug sideways under the sidewalk and one man with a pick and shovel loads a bucket, which another man pulls up with a rope. There are six or seven feet of embankment made in grading the street. Soon after getting down through this to the natural formation several bucket-loads of brick were found.

Then the hole was dug down to a depth of about ten feet, when the pick struck stone—not a natural strata, but dressed stone, evidently laid by the hand of man. Up to this evening the work was still progressing in this stone, and the men feel confident of finding iron below this covering and then silver and gold.

WOULD FIGHT FOR LIBERTY

A Plucky Sheriff Prevents a Jail Delivery.

At the Point of a Revolver He Commanded Respect for the Office He Held.

Oil City, Pa., Sept. 2.—At Franklin last night Sheriff Ray went into the jail where there were six convicts who were sentenced to various terms in the penitentiary, and proceeded to put the prisoners in their individual cells.

The first one ordered in, Dick Hines, of Oil City, under sentence of five years for robbery, refused to go and boldly grappled with the sheriff, behind whom stood Thomas McMahon, of this city, under an eight-year sentence, and Frank Cook, of Franklin, under three years.

The sheriff was on his guard, and before any plan contemplated to overpower him could be carried into execution, he had a controlling grip with one hand on Hines' throat and with the other had a cocked revolver in his face, at the point of which he drove him into his cell.

The others were then put in under the guidance of the revolver, and all taken to the penitentiary.

The six formed a very tough and dangerous gang, and, though extra precautions had been taken, they were sentenced before the completion of court through fear of the necessity of bloodshed within the jail or a raid on it from the outside.

KNOCKED HIS HEAD OFF.

Bethlehem, Pa., Sept. 2.—Richard Nash of Philadelphia, engineer on the fast Reading express, while on the lookout, this morning, was struck by some obstruction near Oreville station, and his head was severed from the body. He hung out of the cab window some minutes, before the fireman discovered his mangled remains.

CASTING THEIR SHADOWS.

Evidence of Coming Hardships for London's Poor.

The Price of Bread Has Commenced to Advance.

Suffering Among the Pilgrims Who Went to See the Holy Coat of Treves—General Foreign Mention.

London, Sept. 2.—Price of bread is rising in London and the working classes are already beginning to feel the pinch of the distress consequent on deficient harvests.

The advance so far is a half penny on the quarter loaf. People are talking of dear bread during the coming winter and with the throngs from Russia and Germany that have crowded into the city during the season, it is apparent that charity will be heavily taxed to supply the needs of the London poor.

The Salvation army is increasing its lodging and food accommodation in preparation for the demands of the winter, and, notwithstanding the opposition of the church and of the Times, money is flowing in liberally from various quarters to the army exchequer.

There is a public sentiment that, however crude the army methods, they reach the right spot, and that the poor are assisted without the red tape that involves so many of the London charities.

Word has just been received that Gen. Booth left Capetown for Australia on Sunday. The General reports that leading statesmen of British South Africa favor his proposition to found a colony in Swaziland, and will give it their practical support.

The General has not yet, however, purchased the land for the proposed South African settlement. He probably wishes to see Australia first. He found the army flourishing in South Africa, both at the Cape and among the converted natives of the interior.

A dispatch from Treves says that the holy coat pilgrims have to undergo irritating hardships during their stay in that city. The weather is so warm that living in the ordinary manner would be sufficiently uncomfortable but it is made much more so by the manner in which the people are crowded together.

Two or three beds in one small room is the rule, but in some cases it is worse, one landlady having crowded nineteen beds into three moderate sized rooms. For accommodations of this kind the charge is four shillings a night.

Food is about three times the usual price and all sorts of souvenirs of the holy coat are on sale in all materials, from gold to wood.

Every second house is a restaurant or beer shop and one beer shop bears the name of "The Holy Coat of Treves."

In order to facilitate the exhibition the papal order that every pilgrim is to say five pater nosters before the relic in order to obtain absolution has been altered by the bishop so that now each pilgrim may say them during his march through the cathedral.

A Berlin dispatch says that the minister of justice has ordered the authorities to proceed immediately with the prosecution of the editor of the socialist journal Die Volkswacht, who was arrested and his paper suppressed for attacking the emperor in its columns.

The Berlin socialists are very much stirred up over the severity on the part of the government and a group of them yesterday who denounced the action taken were dispersed by the police, and threatened with arrest.

The other Berlin papers barely allude to the occurrence, which, however, is privately denounced by prominent German journalists, as an excessive exercise of authority, and more after the fashion of Russia than Germany.

Advices from Paris state that the Dreifus claim against Peru is again to be pressed upon Chili, now that the congressionalists have succeeded, with a view to obtaining the co-operation of Chili in collecting the claim. Balmaceda had rejected the claim as without merit and thereby incurred the hostility of France.

A Berlin dispatch tells of a horrible accident at Eberswalde college. The chemistry class were engaged in an experiment under the guidance of the professor, when an explosion of the chemicals they were using blinded four students, and injured in a lesser degree a number of others.

The Russian government is discharging all Germans, even those of the Russian Baltic provinces, wherever practicable, from government employment.

RED HOT CONVENTION.

New York Prohibs in Session To-Day.

The Republican Party Severely Scored and the Democratic Party Not Less Lightly Treated.

Albany, N. Y., Sept. 2.—The New York state prohibition convention opened here this morning. About three hundred delegates and at least a thousand people were present.

Upon the platform were seated the members of the state and executive committees, W. Jennings Demorest, National Chairman Dickey, and speakers Mrs. A. L. Bailey and Martha J. Bryer. The convention opened at 11:20 with prayer and a selection by the Silver Lake quartette.

Temporary Chairman H. Clay Bascom, of Troy, was then presented and spoke for almost an hour, during which he assailed both republicans and democrats. Not one living political principle, not one vital purpose actuates the rotten parties that bear those names. The word "prohibition," chosen for euphony and scope, a negative term suggesting an evil and its suppression, is to-day the only term in American politics that stands for moral progression in government.

Speaking of New York city he said: "It was there in the Eighth district that the dramshops of the country, represented by those orthodox republicans and liquor dealers, Brodsky and O'Brien, turned over the presidency to Harrison and the governorship of New York to D. B. Hill."

He spoke of the free use of intoxicants in the white house and at Vice-President Morton's hotel, the "Shoreham."

He picked to pieces the republican platform and named the following as representatives of the federal government: Whisky Champion Raum to the pension bureau; Beer Champion Jeremiah Rusk, nominated by the Brewers' congress, secretary of agriculture; liquor dealer Dave Martin, collector of pensions at Philadelphia; defender of the liquor ring, Judge Brewer, to the supreme bench; editor of the Wine and Spirit Review to a commission at Paris; editor of the liquor journal, Volksblatt, of Cincinnati, consul to Germany; liquor lobbyist, W. L. Habercrombie, treasury auditor; the debauchee and conniver at sheriff's office frauds, Bill Leeds, United States marshal; the Evansville Sunday saloon champion, J. A. Lemcke, tendered the United States treasurership by Harrison; Secretary Foster, champion of rum.

He alleged that Gov. Hill was elected through a deal between republicans and whisky sellers. However the republicans were no better and not as good, for they were treacherous, while personally Gov. Hill was a man of fine morals and frankness.

VOICE FROM WEST VIRGINIA.

The Lord gave us good crops, not the republican party.—Wheeling Register.

SHE COULD NOT LOVE HIM,

And With the Dash of a Pen Turned Him Down.

Society Circles in Dayton Greatly Stirred Up Over the Affairs of Mr. Crane and Miss Lee.

Dayton, O., Sept. 2.—Society circles here, in which Capt. James F. S. Crane is a prominent leader, are greatly agitated over the announcement that the prospective marriage of Capt. Crane and Miss Maud Lee, of New York, which was to have taken place at Cooperstown, N. Y., September 17, has been declared off by Miss Lee.

Her declaration is contained in a note to her affianced lover, received Sunday last, wherein she says that she does not believe that she can love him well enough to marry him.

Capt. Crane is a nephew of the late Gen. Robert C. Schenck and the late Admiral J. F. Schenck, and was named after the latter. He is prominent in social circles and was regarded as a good catch. Miss Lee is an only daughter of J. Lee, president of the Conmy National bank, of New York city.

On a visit here two years ago she and Capt. Crane first met. It was a case of love at first sight. Three months ago their engagement was announced and later the date of their marriage, September 17.

A magnificent residence here was purchased and luxuriously furnished. Miss Lee selecting at her New York home many of the adornments and articles that were to beautify their home. Within the past two weeks numerous costly and valuable wedding presents have been received, and were on exhibition at the prospective bridal home.

The bride had purchased her trousseau, and wedding costumes were ordered by the score of persons here who expected to attend the ceremonies. Saturday last a friend of the groom, who was to be "best man," left for the east to make final arrangements for the wedding.

Sunday Capt. Crane received from his betrothed the note which, couched in gentle terms, told, though in unmistakable language, of her declination.

THAT JOINT DEBATE.

The joint debate between Governor Campbell and Major McKinley is awaited with the liveliest expectations. We expect that the highly delirious correspondent can surround the stolid Major with a halo of triumph, but the cold verbatim report of the speeches is to be relied upon. When it comes to off hand talking the Major's highly effervescent sky scraping oratory will not endure the straight forward sledge-hammer blows of a mind like Campbell's. It will not only be an exhibition of the fallacies of McKinleyism as a tariff advocate, but what will be more humiliating it will reveal the true spissitude of the tin god so many idolators prostrate themselves before.—The Massillonian.

VERY DANGEROUS.

The Ohio republicans will find that swapping horses while crossing a stream will not pay and is just as dangerous business now as it ever was. The disgraceful flunk of McKinley on the tariff issue is a precursor of the ignominious defeat which awaits the political cowardice of his party in November.—Mansfield Shield and Banner.

FAST MAIL SERVICE.

From China and Japan to London in Three Weeks.

Unprecedented Time Made by the New Land and Water Route Around the World.

New York, Sept. 2.—The mails from China and Japan which left Yokohama August 19 on the Canadian Pacific Railroad company's steamer Empress of Japan, and which arrived at Vancouver, B. C., August 29, were carried the American continent by special trains in the short time of 88 hours, reached the Grand Central depot at 4 a. m. to-day, were immediately transferred to wagons in waiting and driven rapidly to the Inman dock where they were placed on board the steamship City of New York which sailed at 5 a. m. for Queenstown.

The City of New York is due to arrive in Queenstown next Wednesday, the 9th inst., so that, barring accidents, the mails can be delivered in London that night or at the latest, Thursday morning, thus making the whole time under 21 days, a feat unparalleled in the history of the postoffice.

The mails were brought from Morristown, N. Y., to this city by a special train, which started as soon as the Canadian Pacific train had arrived at Brockville and the mails had been ferried across the St. Lawrence. The train was in charge of Assistant Superintendent Bradley, of the New York Central. Fast time had been made by the Canadian Pacific train and the Central people started out to do better if possible. The 95 miles from Utica to Albany were made in 90 minutes; Poughkeepsie to Cold Springs, 21 miles, in 20 minutes; Croton to Yonkers, 19 miles, in 16 minutes. The transfer by wagon across New York city was made at breakneck speed, and the Inman line had to hold the steamer only 10 minutes later than her scheduled time.

The Canadian people will be satisfied with a record of 21 days from Yokohama to London, but they hope the actual time will be 20 days.

Confirmed.

The favorable impression produced on the first appearance of the agreeable liquid fruit remedy Syrup of Figs a few years ago has been more than confirmed by the pleasant experience of all who have used it, and the success of the proprietors and manufacturers the California Fig Syrup Company.

HULL-SMEAD.

Brilliant Marriage Ceremony at Col. Smead's Residence Last Night.

The marriage of Miss Delia May Smead and Mr. Frank Platt Hull, which occurred at the residence of the bride's uncle, Col. Isaac D. Smead, last evening, was an elegant and delightful affair. The handsome Smead mansion was beautifully decorated with cut flowers and potted plants, and there were about fifty guests present to witness the wedding.

At 7:30 the bridal party marched slowly into the parlor, Masters Burton and Edward Smead preceding and strewing flowers in the path of the bridal couple. Miss Grace Smead and Miss Edith Hull acted as maids of honor.

The bride's costume was of heavy white silk with chiffon overdress. She wore a corsage of orange blossoms and carried a handsome bunch of bridal roses, the whole making a beautiful and becoming toilet for a charming young lady.

The impressive ceremony was performed by Rev. E. W. Hunt, and the happy couple were the recipients of many heartfelt congratulations, among which were numerous telegrams from absent friends and a congratulatory cablegram from Mr. and Mrs. James Bartlett, who are now in London, England. This latter message arrived just after the ceremony had been finished and was the first epistle addressed to them as man and wife.

Elaborate refreshments were served and the evening proved a most happy one for all concerned. Later in the evening the bride and groom left for an extended eastern trip, their departure from home being under a shower of rice cast at them with the best wishes of their many friends.

Among the guests from abroad were Mr. and Mrs. Cratsley and Miss Fanny Lowrie, of Ft. Wayne; Miss Grace Johnson, of East Berlin, Connecticut; Mr. Richard and Miss Nettie Hollington, of Delaware, O.; Miss Eva Platt, of Sandusky, and Mr. Will Balch, of Dunkirk, N. Y.

PROTECTED HIS PROPERTY.

An Indiana Man Objected to Being Robbed.

He Shoots Two Men Dead, Wounds Another, and Is Locked Up in Jail for the Deed.

Waynesville, Ind., Sept. 2.—News reached here last night of a bloody affray at Velpen, Pike county, in which two men were instantly killed and another severely wounded.

Three men named Posey, Miller and Fleming, went into a small restaurant at that place and attempted to rob the proprietor of everything they could lay hands on.

The proprietor ran for his pistol and shot, instantly killing Posey and Fleming.

He then ran to the door and shot twice at Miller. One shot took effect in the fleshy part of the thigh, inflicting an ugly wound. The man who did the shooting was at once arrested and placed under guard.

WHAT WILL PHOEBE DO?

The Lady Managers Shaking in Their Shoes Over the Possibilities.

Chicago, Sept. 2.—The lady managers of the world's fair are shaking in their small shoes over the prospect of Colonel Phoebe Couzins raising another rumpus before the meeting which occurs to-day.

Whatever the belligerant Missourienne intends to do she is keeping entirely to herself, so that the prospect of a sensation is entirely speculative.

The chances are that the meeting will be quiet and orderly, but if anyone should by chance apply the torch the flame will burn briskly.

Mrs. John I. Wise, of Virginia, Miss Couzins' particular champion, arrived this morning and wrote her name on the register in a full, bold hand. It was the sort of handwriting which indicated that if there was to be a row its author would be there or thereabouts.

Mrs. Virginia C. Meredith, who lives just over in Indiana and who is one of the most active of the women-workers, also made her appearance, along with 17 other members of the board.

A WESTERN OPINION.

The Salt Lake Tribune, republican, has this to say about the Ohio democratic platform:

The question of giving to silver the same recognition as money that is given to gold is not a partisan question, but rather it is a sectional one. The advocacy of silver money began in the west; it is creeping east; and if the democrats of Ohio are bright they will fill that state with men who can discuss the silver question on its merits, that will have very little to say about the McKinley tariff, that will show to the men of Ohio, republicans and democrats alike, that the cause of the congestion of business, the fall of prices, which during the last fifteen years has taken a vast amount of the profits from labor; which has filled the land with distress; which has caused the mortgages on the country to treble; which has doubled the number of inmates in the prisons and insane asylums; which has caused young men and women to fly from beautiful homes in the country in which they were born, to seek a living by their wits in the cities; which has caused land to fall 30 per cent. throughout the old, beautiful agricultural valleys between the prairies and the Atlantic; which has stopped the increase of population in all the rural districts; which has given city after city a feverish boom out of proportion to the country surrounding them; that all these misfortunes and many more have their origin in that nefarious act through which our government withdrew its recognition from the silver dollar, when that dollar on an even footing with gold was worth a premium over the gold dollar. That that act, so far as our country was concerned, destroyed one-half the money in the world. That so far as the influence of our country was concerned, it by a natural law destroyed one-half the property in the world; that the fall of prices is not because of the tariff; that the distress is not because of the tariff, but it is because, when our business was running at full speed, when the country was advancing as no country ever advanced before, at a time when our people were using twice as much money as any other people, and when they needed three times as much money as any other people per capita, this infamous act, at the dictation of the creditor class, was forced upon our country. That all the sorrows named above and more too, followed as a natural sequence, and that the first thing to do to restore the ancient prosperity is to give back the old recognition to silver, and to learn to appreciate the real fact that the gold and silver in the western deserts of this country were placed there for the purpose of making the lubricating oil for commerce that its wheels might move without heating or delay onward to the peaceable conquest of this continent, and that, in point of fact, the silver plank in the Ohio democratic platform is the only really important plank in the whole instrument.

THE BATTLE OF SEDAN.

Its Anniversary in Germany To-Day.

The Comment of the Press Is Interesting as Showing the Real Feeling in the Country To-day.

Berlin, Sept. 2.—To-day occurs the twenty-first anniversary of the battle of Sedan.

The comments of the German press on the occasion are couched in the language of Pessimism.

The National Zeitung says that never since the event commemorated to-day have the minds of the German people been so much filled with the possibility that they may be called upon to fight for the retention of those things which they won in the war of 1870-71 as they are at this hour.

The Tageblatt declares that in the internal agitation prevailing in Russia is found one of the few securities for the preservation of the peace of Europe. In Russian Poland, it adds, this agitation has enormously increased of late years. The Tageblat

BAD SKIN ERUPTION

Many Years—All Manner of Medicines and Doctors Fail—Cured in One Month by Cuticura.

In 1885 I had an eruption come out on my skin, and while at first it did not amount to much, it grew to be very aggravating and at times unbearable. The skin would get hard, inflamed and peel off, leaving an entire new skin, acting same way for weeks at a time, always worse at nights. Have tried all manner of medicines and had doctors prescribe to no effect. I bought a box of CUTICURA REMEDIES and used CUTICURA RESOLVENT for my blood. I am fully cured, and in less than a month. It was a most aggravating skin disease, and now I am enjoying ease and comfort. I have had untold benefits. Any one trying CUTICURA REMEDIES cannot help but derive benefit. Any one writing me will receive an answer and my advice to give your REMEDIES a trial.

We have opened a drug store at this place and are having a splendid sale on CUTICURA REMEDIES, which we keep a full stock of. I would not be without your CUTICURA RESOLVENT, CUTICURA and CUTICURA SOAP for $500, just for the benefit it did my little boy. When he was six months old his face was covered with eczema, and CUTICURA REMEDIES cured him. He is now three years old. We still use the CUTICURA SOAP, and wash him occasionally with it to prevent his skin from getting rough. We have handled your remedies for five years, and never heard a complaint against them, but abundant praise. We sold our drug store in Kansas, and will continue in the drug business here.

THE OLD COUNTRY LANE.

The footsteps that pass
Leave no track in the grass
Of the fragrant old country lane;
The sweet hazel hedge
That borders its edge
Is mingled with thistles profane.

The brook purling soft,
The thrust up aloft
In the elm that sways in the wind,
Give the ambient air
A melody rare,
Attuning the heart and the mind.

The lowing of cows
That patiently browse
The herbage just trod by our feet,
Contending perfume
Of odorous June
In the rose and the violet meet.

All nature is ours,
Her birds, breeze, and flowers—
Come, let us build castles in Spain!
We'll sit on the sod
In the silence of God,
And dream in the old country lane.

The postal telegraph service of Great Britain has shown a surplus for the first time since the present rates went into operation in 1883.

The only foreign cadet at West Point, it is stated, is a 20-year old son of Gen. Isidore Urtecho, commander-in-chief of the Nicaraguan army.

The census men found in the United States 14,056,750 horses, 2,296,532 mules, 16,019,591 cows, 36,875,648 oxen and cattle, 43,431,136 sheep, 50,625,106 swine.

The steam power of the world is placed at 49,000,000 horse power. This is equivalent to the working capacity of 1,000,000,000 men, which is more than double the working population.

The most prolific fish is said to be the turbot. One of 28 pounds contained more than five pounds of ova, which numbered more than 14,000,000 eggs. Next after that comes the cod, with 6,000,000.

Probably the largest meteor that ever reached the surface of the earth lies on the plains of Incuman in South America, where it fell. It measures 7½ feet in length, and weighs between 14 and 15 tons.

Gold coin is shipped abroad in five-gallon iron-bound oaken kegs. Each keg holds ten bags, and each bag contains $5,000, so that the value of a keg is $50,000. Gold from the other side usually comes in boxes.

Stock cars are now built with gates to cross platforms, after the fashion of the vestibule trains. In this way the stock are loaded at one chute and "move up forward, please," until the entire train is filled.

The commissioners of the Chicago World's fair have made application for a model of Shakespeare's birthplace, and the authorities of Stratford-on-Avon have given orders for its construction. It will be an interesting feature of the exposition.

The quantity of silk produced annually is over 100,000,000 pounds. Before the revolutionary war the silk worm was introduced into Virginia and North and South Carolina, but the culture has never been attended with any degree of success in the United States.

The fair building at Chicago is to have a steel chimney 250 feet high. It is calculated to weigh, built up with fire brick and tile, 350 tons, against a weight of 700 tons for a similar brick chimney. It can also be built quicker, and its cost is about 60 per cent of a brick construction.

The salary attached to the office of master of hawks, which is really a perpetual pension of £965 a year, drawn by the duke of St. Albans, has been commuted for £13,335, payable in the form of a 10 years' annuity, £2,176 per annum.

Progress in electric roads can be seen from the following: In 1885 there were only three in this country. Now we have 325 roads with 4,000 cars. The comparative cost per mile is 12 cents, while for horse cars we have 18.16 cents and for cable 14.12 cents.

The canal which is to connect Manchester, Eng., with the sea is one of the greatest undertakings of modern times. Its total length will be 35½ miles. It will be 26 feet deep, 172 feet wide at the bottom, and 220 feet at the top. It is about three-fourths completed, and will cost about $45,000,000.

There are only three words in English that end in "ceed." They are exceed, proceed, succeed. It is interesting to note that only four English words end in "cion," namely coercion, epinecion, internecion, suspicion, and only four end in "dous," to-wit, bazar ous, jeopardous, stupendous, tremeadous.

Herr Schenrock has recently given the following results of his observations on 197 thunder storms in Russia. In the hot season the velocity of the storm was less than in the cold, being 28 miles as against 32 miles per hour. It was least at morning and increased gradually to a maximum between 9 and 10 p. m. Those which came from the southwest, west and northwest had the greatest velocity.

President and Mme. Carnot are spending the summer in the historical chateau of Fontainebleau. The apartments occupied by Mme. la President overlook the Cour des Adieux, where Napoleon I parted from his vast army in 1814, and in her bedchamber the little bassinette of the late prince imperial still remains. The president's room was once inhabited by the ill-fated Henrietta, of England, wife of Charles I.

Some of the English manufacturers of textiles are introducing a finishing method, by the use of which, it is asserted, the materials become of considerably greater strength, acquire a greater capacity for containg or absorbing natural moisture, have a more regular as well as close and glossy appearance, take up dyes and coloring matters much more quickly and economically, and will give richer and richer shades.

A man living near Lewistown, Me., has a large field of tobacco which promises to yield a fine crop. The neighbors of the brave planter laughed at him when he prepared his ground to raise the obnoxious American weed. They told him that tobacco would not grow in Maine. But he persevered and is about to reap his reward. The planter declares that the tobacco is of a finer quality than that produced in the south.

A correspondent of Land and Water states that fishing all along by Totland Bay, Isle of Wight, was very poor, and that since the setting up of the search light for the forts it had become worse. He also heard that there used to be a very good place for fish near the lighthouse at St. Catharine's point, but that the electric light had driven them all away, and now it was quite useless putting out nets in a spot wher, a few years since, a decent haul was looked on as a certainty.

In Mexico young girls are called pollitas or little chickens, and old girls are familiarly called pollas or grown chickens. The men have their nicknames as well as the girls, and they are known as gallos or gallinos, and this, strange to say, is a Mexican expression meaning young or old rooster. The senorita matures much earlier than her American sister. She is as old at 12 as our girls are at 18, and the law provides that she may be married at 14. At 25 she begins to verge on old maidenhood and at 30 she is passe. Mexican women age very rapidly, wives are old and fat at 35.

The "enumeration books" of the censuses of 1851 and 1861 in England have been kept for a good many years in the clock tower of the house of parliament, and it occurred to certain members of the London county council the other day that their preservation was a waste of storage room. They accordingly offered a resolution that they should be destroyed, and an order to that effect would have been issued, probably, if the matter had not been brought to the notice of an outsider with some appreciation of the scientific and historical value of statistics, who promptly wrote to the newspapers. The books will be saved now, no doubt; but it is a curious fact that at the very time when the establishment of a permanent census office in London is under consideration, the county council should meditate the destruction of such invaluable records.

A young French advocate, in the course of his address to the court, flourished about his hand in such a manner as to show off a great, magnificent diamond ring. He was young, good looking and pleading for a lady of quality, who demanded a separation from her husband. The husband, who happened to be present, interrupted him in the middle of a period, and, turning to the judges, exclaimed theatrically: "My Lords, you will appreciate the zeal which Monsieur M. is displaying against me, and the sincerity of his argument, when you are informed that the diamond ring he wears is the very one which I placed on my wife's finger on the day of that union he is so anxious to dissolve." The Court rose immediately. The cause was lost, and the advocate never had another. To add to the poignancy of the catastrophe the husband's insinuation had no foundation in fact.

FACTS FROM FINDLAY.

Preparations for Labor Day Celebration.

Divorce Suit Filed—Death of Orion Wisely—Miscellaneous Mention.

Findlay, Sept. 2.—(Special)—Poor Orion Wiseley, the groceryman, who deliberately took his own life, a full account of which appeared in Monday's Bee, lingered until an early hour yesterday evening, never regaining consciousness. The attending physicians held an autopsy and found the fatal ball near the base of the brain.

The funeral will be held at the family residence on Thursday afternoon.

Sued the City.

Weisickle & Messamore, street contractors, have sued the city for $163.94 as the balance on macadamizing East Main Cross street. The only point of dispute is the charge of the city using the steam roller.

Discharged.

Samuel Florlel, the glassworker accused of assaulting Mrs. Ida Lewis on Monday evening, was tried before Mayor Meehan yesterday and discharged, the complaining witness to pay the costs. He had a score of witnesses present who swore he was at the factory where he is employed at the time the assault took place.

Labor Day.

Findlay will do herself proud in celebrating Labor day next Monday. A full day's program has been laid out which includes a grand parade in which about 30 trades unions will take part. A picnic and an afternoon of all kinds of sport will be held at Carnahan park. Among the noted speakers to be present is Hon. John McBride, state commissioner of labor statistics, and a number of others. The majority of business houses throughout the city will be closed for the day.

Sensational Divorce Suit.

Mary M. Dern Bevertin, a well-known lady residing at McComb, has applied for a legal separation from her husband, Israel A. Bevertin, to whom she was married in September, 1889, at North Baltimore. The plaintiff claims in her petition that soon after her marriage she discovered that her husband had a wife and four children living in Pittsburg, to whom he had been married 25 years. She claims he has failed to do anything toward earning a livelihood and has been scheming to get hold of her property. On account of the prominence of the parties concerned the suit has caused quite a sensation at McComb and North Baltimore.

INDIANS ON A STRIKE.

A Cruiser Sent Up to Prevent Bloodshed.

The Red Man Objected to Having the Price Paid for Fish Cut Down Fifty Percent.

New York, Sept. 2.—News of an outbreak among the Indians at Chilcat, Alaska, has been received in this city from Sitka.

According to the advices the United States gunboat was summoned in haste by the citizens of that place, and remained there three days, settling the difficulty.

On the return of the Pinta to Sitka the officers were reticent, and it was impossible to obtain from them or through any other source any news of the trouble excepting that it was through a reduction in the wages paid the Indians engaged in salmon fishing.

Heretofore the canneries have paid the Indians 10 cents for every fish. On their return from the cruising ground the last time they were informed that the canneries would pay no more than half that amount this year.

As the Indians had gone to great trouble and some expense in securing the catch they felt that the owners of the canneries were trying to impose on them.

They refused to dispose of their catch at the price offered, and when the canneries held out and announced that they would close up rather than pay the price demanded, any other price above five cent a fish the Indians became angry and prepared to break out against the town.

It was then that the Pinta was summoned. It is understood at Sitka that the matter was settled without bloodshed but at the writing of the advices the Pinta was preparing for a second visit to the place.

THE HUMANE SOCIETY.

Monthly Meeting Last Evening—The Business Discussed.

The Humane society held its regular monthly meeting last evening with 11 members present and transacted but little business. There was considerable discussion over several cases which some members of the society thought should have been treated differently by the agent of the society and the infirmary director.

Mrs. R. G. Bacon reported on a visit to the Children's home, and stated that everything was found in a most satisfactory condition, with the children well taken care of. The legality of the advisory board of the home was brought up by Mrs. Segur. The law requires that a member of the Humane society shall be on this board, and Messrs. L. G. Richardson and W. A. Rundell were appointed a committee to confer with the county commissioners regarding this.

The report of Humane Agent France was as follows: Relief furnished, 3; cruelty and neglect to children, 13; to wife and family, 12; conviction for cruelty to children, 4; admonition for cruelty to children, 6; investigation not sustained for cruelty to children, 2; convictions for abusing family, 3; admonitions, 4; sent to Lancaster, 1; homes found, 2; sent to infirmary, 2; to boys' home, 1; desertions, 1; abuse to animals, 12; lame and sore, 4; animals laid up, 5; overloaded, 1; relief to animals, 13; animals shot, 3; investigations not sustained, 2; admonitions, 2; convictions, 2; children admonished, 6; complaints withdrawn, 2; total of cases for the month, 65.

IT FAILED TO WORK.

The Treasury Extends the Time of Exchange.

Country Bankers May Come to the Rescue of the Great Financial Scheme.

Washington, Sept. 2.—The amount of 4½-2 per cent. bonds continued at 2 per cent. to-day is $186,900, making the total to date $23,408,550.

There are also about $500,000 more bonds in process of continuation. The interest on the outstanding 4 1-2 per cents. will cease to-day, after which date the department will redeem all that are presented for that purpose.

A circular, however, will be issued extending for an indefinite period the privilege of continuing these bonds at 2 per cent.

So far $2,500,000 have been received for redemption, and it is expected that the rest of the outstanding continued bonds, estimated to aggregate $20,000,000 will be presented for redemption during the next two months.

The net amount of gold in the treasury to-day to meet this liability is $132,471,-403, an increase of $14,803,686 since the 1st of July, and an increase of $11,358,-384 since the 1st of August.

Should the entire $20,000,000 be paid in gold it would not entrench on the $100,000,000 of gold reserved for the redemption of legal tender notes.

The Tortures of the Inquisition

Inflicted by the dread Torquemada have abominable prototypes in the shape of chronic rheumatism and neuralgia. Attack these agonising complaints before they reach the chronic stage with the superb blood depurent, Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, which will assuredly expel their virus from the life stream. To procrastinate is to encourage the growth of incipient rheumatism, which rapidly tightens its grip upon the system. It is the very octopus of diseases, and paiuful indeed is the clasp of its dreadful tentacles. Be prompt, therefore, take time by the forelock, always remembering that both rheumatism and gout, close relatives, are dangerous as well as painful. Debility, chills and fever, bilious remittent, dyspepsia, constipation, liver complaint, nervousness and kidney disease succumb to the Bitters. Appetite and the ability to sleep well are improved by it.

KING OF ROMANY TRIBES.

A Successor to the Late King Henry.

Massachusetts Claims the Proud Distinction of Being the Gypsy King's Birthplace.

Boston, Sept. 2.—A king of the gypsies of the Americas was born in the woods of Newton, a suburb of Boston, shortly after 1 o'clock Saturday afternoon, and thus may Massachusetts claim the proud distinction of being the birthplace of him who, a month hence, will be christened King John of the Gypsies and proclaimed throughout all gypsy land as successor of King Henry, late ruler over the Romany tribes of the United States.

The royal youngster—he weighed 11 pounds—is the son of Tryphena, thirty-fourth queen of Zut, tribe of Roman Umchiels, and of Gypsy Sam, whose surname is Buckland.

They were made one in England 14 years ago this summer. The mother is a great granddaughter of Charlotte, who was the twenty-seventh queen of the Zut tribe of the Basque and Asturias provinces in Spain.

She is 27 years of age, of rich, dark complexion, and is considered the handsomest among all the gypsy women of America. The father has no claim to royal blood.

He is about 33 years of age, and is one of the most clever horsemen in the country. He is reported to be quite wealthy, his riches running up, it is said, into the tens of thousands of dollars. The youthful king is the fifth child of the couple, and his title comes to him through his being the first son born of Queen Tryhena after the death of King Henry, which occurred in Birmingham, Eng., last November.

STRUCK A GRAVEYARD.

A Farmer's Plow Unearths a Find in Illinois.

Carthage, Ill., Sept. 2.—While plowing in a field on the Sweeny farm Mr. Felt unearthed a cave containing several skeletons.

A number of stones were first discovered, This excited surprise, as there are few stones in that locality. The largest was dug out with difficulty. Mr. Felt found several such stones, but of less size, apparently laid with some regularity, like a floor or covering to some receptacle beneath.

On their removal there was revealed an almost perfect skeleton and near its feet were the skull and decaying fragments of another. A little more digging to the northeast revealed another skeleton lying partly under the first.

The skull of the second skeleton was found and a number of leg and arm bones were taken out and laid beside the excavation, when on exposure to the atmosphere they soon fell in fine pieces.

The skeleton in the excavation also showed signs of disintegration. The mound, the stone covering and the skeletons and parts thereof as described were closely examined.

The skull of the first or larger skeleton was fairly well preserved, some of the teeth being almost perfect. The skull that had been taken out had crumbled into small pieces, but the cavity in the soil where it had been was a perfect mold for a casting. But little of the third skeleton was exposed and that in a very fragmentary shape.

The first skeleton lay on its side with its face inclined to the east. The others lay with their faces downward. There did not appear to be any regularity in the interment. Evidently the bodies were thrown in hastily. The stone covering was possibly an afterthought, as was also the mound, which leads to the conjecture that the entombed persons were dignitaries of some sort. The field has been turned over to the college authorities.

HAS NO LEGAL EXISTENCE.

A Kansas County in a Bad Situation.

It Was Never Properly Organized and Much Trouble May Follow as a Result.

Topeka, Ks., Sept. 2.—Habeas corpus proceedings were instituted in the supreme court yesterday to secure the release from the penitentiary of Mrs. J. Short, of Garfield county, charged with killing her stepchild.

The importance of the case lies in the fact that it calls in question the organization of Garfield county, which, it is claimed, has never been legally organized, because it contains less than 432 square miles, the number required under the constitution.

It is claimed that since the county has never been legally organized its courts have no jurisdiction.

If the attorneys are successful it will render void the numerous mortgage foreclosures of that county and liquidate the county debt at one fell swoop.

ATTACKED WITH A HATCHET.

A White Woman and Her Little Daughter Terribly Cut by a Brutal Negress.

Oklahoma, O. T., Sept. 2.—Last evening Mrs. Mary Ryan, who is an invalid and her little 7-year-old daughter, were attacked in a most savage and brutal manner by a negress, Mary Hewitt, who occupied a tent in Mrs. Ryan's yard.

The negress became enraged at the child, and commenced to beat her with a broom. The sick mother got out of bed and attempted to protect her child, when the negress seized a hatchet and attacked Mrs. Ryan, breaking both arms in several places and cutting two deep gashes in her back.

The child was a mass of bruises. It is probable that both will die. The negress was arrested, and with difficulty taken to jail. A large mob surrounded the prisoner, and were determined to lynch her, but the prompt arrival of the troops prevented this.

PLACED UNDER ARREST.

Chicago, Sept. 2.—Arthur Fishback, who has been bookkeeper for the Glen Ellyn hotel and Spring company, of this city, was locked up at the police station yesterday on warrants charging him with obtaining money under false pretenses.

The officers of the company have discovered that the young man has swindled about 20 different persons out of amounts that will aggregate between $3,000 and $4,000, besides embezzling nearly $1,000 of the funds of the company.

DAVIS WILL CASE.

Butte, Mont., Sept. 2.—A climax was reached in the Davis will case yesterday when experts tested the ink on the document to prove whether it was nigrocine or logwood. In case the ink was logwood the acid would cause it to turn a red light, while if nigrocine, the application of acid would cause no change in the color. To the chagrin of the contestants the color of the writing where the acid was applied turned to a reddish tint. The test was the close of the testimony of the contestants. Arguments will be begun to-day.

WILLIAMS WON.

Ogden, Utah, Sept. 2.—The fight for the heavy-weight championship of Utah was decided last night in the Grand opera house in the presence of 1,200 spectators. The contestants were Jim Williams, of St. Lake, and George Morrison, of Ogden. The purse offered by the athletic club of Ogden was supplemented by side bets, making a total of $5,000. The battle was short and sharp. Morrison was out-fought from start to finish and was knocked out in the fifth round after being badly punished.

LATEST FADS IN JEWELRY.

Fancy enamel flower pins are popular.

Grape jewelry is still the latest novelty.

Heart-shaped jewelry is still in demand.

Very large silver pendents will be popular.

Souvenir spoons still continue to "hold the fort."

Attruscan jewelry will be much worn this year.

Very heavy chain bracelets will be "just too stylish" this winter.

Serpentine rings are still in favor with both ladies and gentlemen.

Mr. W. E. Cawood reports business rushing. The jewelers expect a fine business this fall.

In set rings the marquis pattern seems to be still in the lead. The style of setting in ladies' rings is extremely delicate.

The proper thing for evening dress will be a round attruscan lovers' locket decorated with fluer-de-lis and suspended by a very fine woven wire necklace.

CHARGED WITH MURDER.

Dr. J. M. Talbott Placed Under Arrest.

The Death of Rhoda Starkey Promises to Prove a Very Serious Affair.

Terre Haute, Ind., Sept. 2.—Dr. J. M. Talbot has been arrested for the murder of Rhoda Starkey, a seamstress. It is charged that he ruined her under promise of marriage and afterwards caused her death.

Last Thursday the girl died and Dr. Talbot attended her in her last sickness. He filled out the death certificate, stating that she died of congestion of the stomach and the next day she was interred at the little country graveyard.

Sensational rumors from persons in the same building with the girl led to an examination and it was found that the unfortunate victim had been in a delicate condition and that she was a victim of malpractice. A visit to her rooms by the police led to damaging discoveries against Talbot. The affair has created a profound sensation.

JOAN OF ARC.

A French Student Says the Legend Is Away Off the Facts.

The numerous paintings of Joan of Arc in the recent French salons in almost every case represent her as a young girl suffering from neurosis, says Adolphe Smith in the Philadelphia Telegraph, and it is difficult to understand how a proud people like the French can care to believe that their nation was saved by a girl afflicted with nervous disease.

There is one Frenchman, however, M. Ernest Lesigne, who has raised his voice against this anything but flattering description of the deliverance of France. His book, entitled "La Fin d'Une Legende Vie de Jeanne d'Arc," bears the stamp of a true history, and it might with advantage be carefully studied. It gives a much more creditable account of what really occurred, and the result of M. Lesigne's investigations should be widely known, so that such cobwebs of history as the Joan of Arc legend may be swept away. It must, therefore, be loudly proclaimed that Joan of Arc did not save France; that she was not burned alive; but, on the contrary, having with the aid of age and matrimony got rid of her nervous derangements, lived to be the happy mother of a numerous family.

France was saved by the French people and not by a mad girl who pretended to have seen visions. Joan of Arc was an honest, virtuous, brave country lass. The grand council of France, after much hesitation, made use of her to carry a banner. The spectacle of a woman on horseback, who knew how to ride well—for her father being an innkeeper she was accustomed to horses—and who was said to have seen visions was calculated to encourage an ignorant and superstitious soldiery. Her presence was of some use. She constituted one of the many physic influences which raised France from her abasement; but she did not defeat the English. The slow, deliberate, gradual reorganization of the French nation, the disorganization of the English, and their civil dissensions insured the triumph of the one, the defeat of the other.

As M. Lesigne says, use was made of Joan of Arc; she was given a banner to carry, but was not intrusted with any command. When she was behind time for a combat the combatants did not wait for her arrival; when she came too soon the combat did not begin sooner than the appointed hour, whatever she might say or do. Joan of Arc was in the army an individual outside of its ranks and discipline; it was the army that won the battles and was equally successful when Joan of Arc was not there. The soldiers listened to the marvelous stories of her visions, and they became a subject of camp gossip; but to conquer the enemy no one relied on this idle talk. On the contrary every effort was made first to collect a large sum of money, then bring together numerous troops and select experienced captains. Nor was this all. Enormous cannon were manufactured, great pains taken to improve the artillery, and diplomacy employed all its arts. All the vital forces of the country were brought to bear.

With the use of gunpowder, the English archers were beaten, the expensive armor worn by the feudal lords was shattered to pieces, and the great walls of the feudal castles were battered and crumbled to dust. But to bring about this revolution in the art of war and the distribution of political power, thirty years' constant fighting was necessary, during which many murderous sieges took place, numerous battles raged, and great diplomatic and political efforts were made. But Joan of Arc only participated for a few months in these combats, which lasted more than a quarter of a century.

The book before me quotes numerous documents written at the time describing Joan's visit to Orleans and other places after her escape from the English. It gives some account of her marriage with a knight named Robert des Armoises, and the title deed is full, by which "We, Robert des Armoises, knight, lord of Tichemont, and Jehanne de Lys, laPucelle, de France, wife of the said Tichemont," sell to De Equary Collard de Filly a property of theirs at Haurancourt. It is well known that Joan of Arc was given as an honor and a reward the name of De Lye. The documents quoted show that it was the French clergy, and notably the University of Paris, that wanted to persecute her; that neither the duke of Luxemburg, by whom she was captured, nor the duke of Borgundy would give her up till the clergy persuaded the English king to pay her ransom.

Tried and convicted of witchcraft by the French ecclesiastical court, she was given over to the secular arm, which alone could carry out executions, and ultimately allowed to escape, like many other persons whom the clergy condemned to death, but whom the secular authority readily released in exchange for ransoms or simply from a feeling of humanity. These condemnations were a sort of moral satisfaction allowed to the clergy, but which were very rarely followed by actual execution.

Our Boys.

They are mothers' treasures and the hope of the country; but much depends on rearing them well. To have them grow to be strong men, they must be strong children; and nothing helps children so much as Dr. Hand's Children's Remedies. A case in point: Mr. W. S. Cobb, Green Ridge Meat Market, Scranton, Pa., writes: "Don't talk Soothing Syrup, Paregoric, or Godfrey's Cordial to me when I can get Dr. Hand's Colic Cure. It relieves my child from colic in less than five minutes' time, throws off the wind and quiets its nerves. Any person who, after using it, is not pleased with its action, cannot be suited with anything."

The sapphires and rubies are of poor color and not very valuable. Turquoise was worked by the Aztecs before the Spaniards set foot in America.

SHOULD SHAKE AGAIN.

A Bad Throw with the Matrimonial Dice Box.

The Old Man Marries the Young Girl and the Young Man Takes the Old One.

New York, Sept. 2.—A double engagement, strange because of the relationship of the contracting parties and notable because of the wealth and social position of all concerned, is announced from Bar Harbor.

Horatio N. Slater, the many times millionaire, of Webster, Mass., is soon to marry Miss Mabel Hunt, the younger daughter of the late Wm. Morris Hunt, and niece of R. M. Hunt, the architect, of No. 2 Washington Square, this city. Mr. Slater is credited with 65 years, while his promised bride is barely in her twenties.

It is also announced that at the same time Mr. Slater's son, aged 26, will wed Miss Hunt's elder sister Enid. It is likely that both marriages will be performed at the same time.

A strange discovery has been made at the Chateau Champlain. The vine grower found that his vineyard was encumbered by an old decayed wall, and obtained permission to have it pulled down. His surprise may be imagined when, in the interior, in a sort of cavity, he discovered two male skeletons, with their necks, hands and feet riveted together with iron fetters. Some remnants of clothes, reduced to dust, were found on the ground were the skeletons lay, as well as some rusty iron fragments. A doctor expressed the opinion that the skeletons have been there for seven or eight hundred years. They will be preserved in the position in which they were found, pending an inquiry, and finally sent to the Bordeaux museum.

The mad King of Bavaria sometimes smokes as many as 100 cigarettes a day. For each cigarette he uses an entire box of matches, touching off the others to see them burn after he uses one to secure a light. He has two new suits of black broadcloth made for him twice every week.

BACCILLI IN BLOOD.

Recent experiments as read before the last Congress of Surgeons at Berlin, leave no doubt that the true way to CLEAR THE SYSTEM OF MICROBI is through the pores of the skin. It has been found that a remedy which kills the Microbi will also destroy the life of the patient; but it has also been found that the Microbi can be forced out through the skin, and it is in this way that S.S.S. relieves the system of poison.

HAVING SUFFERED much from Contagious Blood Poison, after using half a dozen bottles of S.S.S. I was RESTORED TO PERFECT HEALTH, and all eruptive sores disappeared. You are at liberty to make any use of my statement that you wish.—J. CROSBY BYRON, 208 Third Avenue, Pittsburg, Pa.

A BURGLARY BY TELEPHONE

Extraordinary Adventure of a Wealthy Bridegroom.

It Is Told by a Chicago Newspaper of a Well Known Man of That City, But Is a Tough Story to Believe.

"It is a well known fact that no other section of the population avail themselves more readily and speedily of the latest triumphs of science than the criminal class," said the detective.

"The well informed criminal," he continued, "skims the cream from every new invention, if he can make use of it. No iron safe has yet been constructed that keeps out the shrewd and determined burglar, and that's the way in everything. But I don't recall a case in which this truth was more thoroughly demonstrated than the Maxwell case."

"What case was that?" I asked.

"It was at the time when the telephone had just been introduced into business and private use. George Maxwell was at that time one of the most successful speculators on the board of trade at Chicago, and was currently reported to have tipped the scale which marked $1,000,000. He was a young and handsome man, and had just married a lady of remarkable beauty. It was a decided love match. A score or so of messages were dispatched every day during business hours. They contained such important queries as: '2:10 p. m. How are you now, darling? And replies like this: '2:35 p. m: I sigh for you. How is my sweetest? Well, to save outlay and to increase the facility of communication, Mr. Maxwell connected his office with his home in Ashland avenue, two miles off, by a private telephone wire. He was one of the first men in Chicago to do so. About two out of six business hours were now spent by him at the instrument.

"One day, just before the close of business, there was a ring at the telephone. The devoted husband, with a leap, was there. 'What does my darling wish?' he murmured.

"'I'm no darling. You mistake me, sir!' came the reply, in a masculine voice, a voice rough and rasping, but very distinct.

"'Who are you, then?' asked the astonished millionaire.

"'I'm Thomas Jefferson Odell, the accomplished burglar, if you want to know!'

"'Repeat, please,' gasped the other.

"'Odell, the burglar,' came the answer. 'But, now listen, I cannot waste time. I and two of my gang have gained access to the house. The cook, the chambermaid and your wife are lying here bound and gagged. The black coachman has been disposed of. Some bundles of rags soaked in petroleum have been judiciously distributed about the house ready to be ignited.'

"'You scoundrel,' shouted the agonized husband, in an excess of emotion.

"'Don't excite yourself. Now, sir, here is my proposal. If you disappear from the telephone without acceding to it I shall set fire to the house. It's no use applying to the police, for we'd be too quick for them. You will see, Mr. Maxwell, that you are utterly in my power. The only sensible thing you can do is to listen to my proposal and to agree to it.'

"'Oh, I wish I had my hand at your throat, you villain!' shouted the millionaire, shaking with rage.

"'But you know you haven't, so what's the use of your talking that way! Let us talk business instead. I need a loan of $10,000 cash. I need it at once. If you are inclined to lend me that sum without guarantee I shall leave your house with my men in exactly the same condition in which I found it.'

"'You are ruining me,' groaned Maxwell; 'and I don't think I have that much money in cash in the office safe.'

"'You'll force me to commit an atrocious deed,' came the remorseless reply.

"'All right then—yes, I'll pay, but to whom?'

"'It is now 5:15 exactly. At this very moment my confederate has entered your office to receive the money. You will pay him and he will tell you the watchword I agreed to between us, which you will telephone to me at once.'

"Mr. Maxwell turned around. A stranger of pleasant mien, dressed in the height of fashion, stood before him. Said the visitor:

"'I have called to collect a little matter of $10,000 for a friend of mine, Thomas Jefferson Odell.'

"'I understand,' replied Mr. Maxwell, who went to the safe, took from it two packets containing $10,000, and handed the money to the stranger.

"The latter ascertained that the amount was correct, and placed it inside his breast pockets.

"'And the watchword?' demanded Mr. Maxwell.

"'Do right and interfere not!' replied the burglars' confederate, with an assumption of dignity, and strode out of the office with all the grandeur of a Spanish hidalgo.

"'Do right and interfere not!' joyfully shouted Mr. Maxwell through the telephone. 'And now you'll leave my premises, Mr. Odell, won't you? And as for my wife——'

"'Have no fear, Mr. Maxwell,' replied the man at the other end, 'you have to deal with a burglar and a gentleman.'

"Mr. Maxwell locked his office, entered his carriage and galloped to his residence. The more closely he approached the keener his fear of a catastrophe became. But as he stopped at the gate he noticed nothing out of the way. He sprang up the stairs and entered the pretty boudoir of his prettier wife. She was quietly reading.

"'How you must have suffered, my angel!' he cried, and a sob shook his voice.

"The young wife looked up astonished.

"'Suffered? I?'

"'That burglar, you know—it must have been awful. Oh, you poor darling!'

"'Why, George, dear, what is the matter? You speak in riddles.'

"'But didn't he gag you?' he asked.

"'Now, my dearest George, I wish you would talk sense. What do you mean?'

"After Mr. Maxwell had finished the recital of his adventure he asked:

"'Wasn't there somebody here using my telephone?'

"'Why, yes, there was,' replied Mrs. Maxwell. 'A young and well dressed man came in, introduced himself to me as Mr. Thomas Jefferson Odell, a speculator and business friend of yours, and requested permission to make use of your private telephone to send you a most important message on business. Of course I gave permission. He used the telephone but a short time and then came back into the drawing room, thanked me for the favor I had done him and went away, saying the telephone was a most useful and admirable invention—it facilitated business so much.'

"'And that was all?' queried Mr. Maxwell; 'he didn't gag you and the servants? He was alone, and did not offer violence to you?'

"'Not at all. He was most polite and gentlemanly—quite as much as you are at this moment, George.'

"'Great Scott!' exclaimed Maxwell, with a wild outburst, 'how gigantically I've been sold. Excuse me, dear, but I can't help it. I'll drive over and interview the police.'

"And that's what he did," concluded the detective, "and that's the way I came in possession of the facts. But after talking the matter over, and consulting with the smartest detectives in my service, we arrived at the conclusion that there was little chance of recovering the money. The pair were too adroit. In spite of all our efforts since we've heard nothing more of the $10,000, nor of Mr. Thomas Jefferson Odell and his confederate."—Chicago News.

This Engraving presents the reverse side, or Political Map. The Map of the United States on the other side does not need illustration. The entire Map is printed in eleven colors, making it very attractive. Seven colors are used on this side of the Map. It is mounted with rollers, top and bottom, and well bound with tape on sides. It is the largest map ever printed on one sheet of paper. The engraving on both sides of this map cost more than $6,000. Each Political Party seen on the attached engraving is represented on the map in a distinct color. When a Party begins, a color appears, and when the Party dissolves the colors disappears.

A REFUGEE'S STORY.

Hank Owings had in war times been a union refugee.

I was on his circuit and had gone to his home for the night, where, after the supper things had been put away, he told this story of the days when that part of the country was common forage ground for all the outlaws and guerrillas of East Tennessee:

"East Tennessee was union, and mostly mountains. There weren't many slave-holders hereabouts, so the folks didn't care to fight, and kept out of it as best they could.

"I had just turned 19, and was a strapping fellow, tall like I am now—I hain't shortened much," with a soft laugh.

"Father and I had started for the cornfield, just around that knoll over there in the meadow, when a troop of guerillas rode down the road to halt in the old door-yard. They wanted to know where the men folks were, when they'd be back, how many boys belonged to the place, how old they were, and all that.

Then, with most of the poultry stowed in their saddle-bags, they rode away laughing, saying as how they'd be back after the boys some day.

"After that it was settled I'd better get to Nashville than be conscripted by the rebs. I reckon there were a dozen boys that were in the neighborhood. We had agreed upon the night, for all there weren't one of us what'd been away from home, but we got a map from one of our old school books, and, after studying a bit, 'lowed we could get there.

"The old church at the mouth of the Post Oak road was the rendezvous. When the night came around the boys were on the ground, and impatient to be off. Crossing the valley, single file, we crept up the side of Walden Ridge, to throw ourselves on the grass at its top just at the edge of Lookout Rook. With one long, lingering look we plunged into the wilderness that makes the great Cumberland Plateau, and that covers a third almost of the entire state of Tennessee.

"A wild, mountainous region now, it was wilder then; and whichever way one might turn might be into a guerillia camp or against one of their pickets.

"The third night out we struck Daddy's creek. The trail westward, descending sharply into a deep ravine, brought us to a broad, shallow stream. There was an opening in the woods so we could see the sharp roof of a building against the sky. Along the edge of this stream was a jungle of laurel, into which the boys crept, while I went forward to reconnoitre. Keeping in the shadow of the laurels, I forded the creek to find myself beside a broad, level stretch of highway. The fresh hoof marks in it startled me, and made me more careful in my movements. The building was an old deserted sawmill. There were holes in its roof, through which the moon shone, which, by the way, was in its second quarter. I approached the mill over the logs that once supported its clumsy flume. Nearer and nearer I crept, feeling each piece of timber that was likely to feel a pound of my weight—

"'Crack—'

"'Who goes there?'

"I had barely time to drop among the foundations of the flume when the figure of a man was dimly outlined in the gable of the mill. Standing there some time he afterward withdrew, reluctantly, it seemed to me, into the deeper shadow, yet I felt his eye was still on the broken flume.

"I peered over the log, and in the gable again stood the gray, ghostly vision I had before seen. It was motionless, yet I dared not move, for I saw the glint of a rifle against the black background.

"It was a sentry—a guerilla, no doubt.

"There was little chance of getting out of those logs without discovery, with the sentry within pistol-shot. How long I lay there I know not. It must have been an hour. It seemed much longer. Across the creek came the cry of a night hawk. It was our signal—one for danger, two for safety. I heard it but once; then there was a tramp of horses' feet, a grinding of heavy hoofs in the gravel, as if on a descending road, and a halt at the old mill. There must have been a half-dozen troopers in the party.

"We were inside their lines, for these horsemen came from the same direction as ourselves.

"'Sam! Sam!' in a low, penetrating voice.

"They were about to charge the sentry.

"The man in the gable had disappeared.

"I leaped noiselessly from my hiding-place into the deeper shadow under the mill. I heard the cry of the night-hawk again. I could not answer. The night was a perfect one. I could distinguish the low tones of their conversation which was carried on in the mill above. It was concerning the noise in the old flume. There was a general dismount. The tramp of feet and the rattle of spurs toward the open gable were easily distinguished. One got down upon the rotten timbers and crept out into the moonlight.

"'Ther's nobuddy out hyar,' I heard him say in a low voice.

"'Must hev been some so't uv'r critter—couldn't hev been a man.'

"'Mebbe,' was the equally low reply, 'but Pete, keep a sha'p eye out for them boys from Post Oak—they'll be like t' come out hyar.'

"Pete was the new guard.

"'How many be they?'

"'I 'low ther's mo'n a dozen. Ol' Ow'n's boys 's 'long 'n 'em.'

"'How 'd yer git thet?'

"'I he'rd 't—they lit out two nights ago. They ain't fur off.'

The cry of the night-hawk came again.

"'What's thet?' asked a new voice.

"'Thet—thet's a night-hawk.'

"Thought mebbe 't mougt be a signal, 'r suthin'—they're durned thick 'round hyar, seems t' me.'

"A boy, only, my heart came into my mouth, to fill it completely. I wondered who had played the spy.

"Nothing more was said. The exchange of sentries made, the guerillas recrossed the stream and rode up the hill into the thick woods.

"A spell of weird silence came. I could see quite plainly the big timbers here and there. A bit away a square shaft of light dropped through the opening in the floor where the saw-frame played up and down.

"I crept stealthily toward the old frame, which was still in its place. I heard the sentry just above. Then I saw the shadow of his broad, felt hat on the timbers in the wheel-pit, as if its owner were trying to solve the secret of its darkness.

"If the fellow would only go to sleep, I thought; but instead, he began a monotonous patrol up and down the floor of the old mill. I could easily locate him, for his tread was heavy. He evidently felt a deal of curiosity in the old flume, for once at that end of the mill he would remain there quietly for minutes, doubtless filled with that nameless sense that betrays the nearness of humanity oftentimes without revealing it. I have no doubt he felt uneasy, and rightly, for my every sense was so alert, and my mental determination so complete, that this particular individual must be disposed of in some way. So intense were my feelings, and so predominant my mental action, I found myself wondering if I had not made my thoughts audible.

"The sentry again began passing, slowly but steadily, across the plank floor above. His footsteps, with the swash and ripple of the stream against the laurel bushes, were the only sounds, unless now and then I caught the cry of the night-hawk, and always from the same direction.

"I kept note of the time by the moon, and I remember I set it about two after midnight.

"In that time the untutored boy had matured into the daring man. I started forward upon the narrow saw-frame, and just at that moment got the greatest fright of my life.

"I felt the touch of an invisible hand, and just then a feather-blow would have sent me into the water.

"'Hank!'

"I knew the voice.

"'Hank!'

"'Yes.'

"'Guerillas?'

"The sentry stopped just above. Looking across the opening I saw him, and, with the moonlight at his back, he seemed a huge fellow. He carried his rifle on his shoulder, and I could see the sheath of a big knife in his belt along with the butt of a 'navy.'

"He started on his patrol.

"'Hank, we must kill that fellow.'

"I had not thought of that, I said, briefly. 'Go back. Bring the boys over here at once—'

"The sentry was returning. I waited for him to get to the end of his beat.

"'The slightest noise will betray us—they know we are in the woods—they are watching for us—'

"The sentry was again in the open gable.

"'Bring the boys across the ford, in the shadows—there may be a scrimmage. Signal back across the ford.'

"After that I waited for the signal.

"It came. The foot-fall of the sentry stopped suddenly, as if he had noted the cry.

"I crept out upon the old saw frame. I could see well enough, I had been so long in obscurity. Feeling my way along the timbers I found one that was notched, as if it had been some time used as a ladder. Climbing to the level of the floor above I looked out under the low eves at the sky. It was clear. There were no clouds to throw their shadows about me.

"The guard still paced up and down. At last, hidden behind the huge post I had ascended, I could survey at will the entire interior. The sentry kept to his patrolling. I could have touched him as he passed, half asleep, his shaggy chin almost touching his broad chest.

"I had to do everything so slowly, but I somehow felt the man was in my power.

"My plans were complete. No trace of the sentry must be left. His comrades might think he had deserted them, but no more.

"At last the fellow stopped, leaning his rifle against the post that concealed me. He fumbled his pocket for his tobacco.

"'Pete'! I whispered.

"He turned, like a mountain-cat, to meet a swift, unerring blow. Before he could move he was gagged and disarmed.

"With the cry of the night-hawk among the rafters, a swift rush of feet, and the boys had gathered about us.

"'What yer goin' t' do with 'im, Hank?'

"'Make him show us the way out of this hornet's nest.'

"'Where's your camp, stranger?' I asked.

"The guerilla pointed directly opposite the way the troopers came to relieve the guard.

"I drew the back of his bowie-knife across his bare throat as a warning, if he did not tell the truth.

"We are the Post Oak boys, and you are going with us a bit. I reck'n you'll show us the way—or the buzzards 'll find a good breakfast in the morning. Where's your camp, stranger?' a second time.

"He saw as little mercy in my face as in the cold gleam of his ugly weapon.

"He nodded the way the guerillas went.

"'Nashville, is it?'

"'Down the road,' I interpreted his look in that direction.

"'Any sentries down there?'

"He nodded a second time.

"'Well, go ahead. If you get us into trouble——'

"He shrunk from the touch of the cold knife with a shiver.

"Then we began our tramp, the path growing narrower and the shadows deeper.

"Suddenly the guerilla stopped.

"I removed the gag.

"'Ther' mought be a picket hyarbouts, Cap'n.'

"'What's your countersign?'

"'Post Oak,' was the answer.

"Down the road I went with the lad who found me under the old mill, silently, to come into an opening in the woods, flooded with the clear white moonlight. At its farther edge, in the deeper shadows, stood the motionless picket.

"We had agreed there should be no noise, no shooting.

"Then we stepped out to meet the challenge.

"'Yer all right, I reck'n,' the guerilla replied familiarly as we gave the countersign.

"The butt of his rifle dropped to the ground.

"'Got a chew, stranger?' I asked.

"'I reck'n,' reaching deep down into his trousers pocket for his tobacco plug.

"Then came the struggle. I seemed to feel all the ferocity of a wild animal. I had his throat in both my hands. Nor was my comrade idle. Part of the time I was in the air, then my feet would reach the ground, but I kept my grip on his throat. Somehow he had loosened Pete's revolver from my belt—I heard the click of his hammer—its sharp blow on the capped nipple.

"There was no report—no smoke.

"Then I saw the shadow of a falling rifle-stock, and the guerilla fell away from me dead.

"'Had to do't, Hank,' my comrade said, apologetically. 'He's jest fit for buzzard meat, helping himself to the weapons of the prostrate sentry. 'Spose we'll hev to tote 'im along?'

"I repeated the signal twice and a moment later the boys came up with us.

"Before dawn we had forded Daddy's Creek for the last time, where the buzzards found a table ready laid for them at daybreak, for we had no time to waste on the dead picket. Two weeks later we reached Nashville without further incident with Pete a prisoner of war, our first but not last capture.—St. Louis Republic.
